on major questions in the public domain, another way of saying not many people line up in black and white contrast on every issue, a political campaign in our country stands little chance of lifting off the launch pad if a candidate or a party takes a hard line stance from A through Z.

The politico has to serve a varied diet if he is to win at the ballot box.

Jimmy Carter chose the American Legion's national convention at Seattle at the first testing ground in that effort since his nomination as the Democratic standard bearer this year.

The 9,000 members and guests in the audience accorded him a warm reception to the podium and cheered his recommendations for more benefits to veterans and a hard muscled, agile defense program capable of shooting up an aggressor's missile before it can

The applause turned to boos when he called for pardoning the Viet Nam war protestors en masse.

The negative reaction did not abate when he explained his understanding of the difference between pardon and amnesty

A pardon, he told the group, is forgiving a crime.

Amnesty is a sovereign act declaring no crime was perpetrated in the first instance.

The crowd simmered down a bit when he said he would apply the amnesty-pardon distinction to draft dodgers, but not to military deserters on a mass basis. The latter would be processed individually through the

We shall have to wait until somebody like Gallup or Roper might take a poll on the Seattle speech's effect upon the voters to see if Carter scored a point or

His pitch on veteran benefits and national defense is the same as Ford's and the position of the two men on the Nam resisters remains unchanged.

Carter's gain would have to come from people who applaud a candidate for bearding the lion in his den.

A number of reporters covering the speech pounced on Carter for manufacturing a distinction between amnesty and pardon because most dictionaries in general usage treat them as being synomynous, and because the public sees no substantial difference between them.

Going by the legal dictionaries and the decisions of courts down through the centuries, Carter has the right of it in this semantical argument.

Amnesty, express or implied, is the sovereign's declaration that what appeared to be a criminal offense is not that at all.

At the height of the Viet Nam controversy a few years ago the draft dodgers consistently demanded amnesty from Washington on the ground of exercising a moral revolt to an im-moral act of aggression by our government.

Just as consistently they rejected a pardon which the law regards as the forgiving of a sin. The draft dodgers contended they had not committed a wrongful act whatever.

As a skillful politice, Carter could care less about the distinction other than defining it for the benefit of two opposing viewpoints.

He hopes the Legionnaires will accept the idea of the draft dodgers still being regarded as naughty persons who have suffered long enough; and that the draft dodgers and their families will take the benefit of a pardon as a practical exchange for a philosophical position.

Jimmy Carter The Lexicographer

Because most of us are ambivalent on major questions in the public domain, another way of saying not many people line up in black and white contrast on every issue, a political campaign in our country stands little chance of lifting off the launch pad if a candidate or a party takes a hard line stance from A through Z.

The politico has to serve a varied diet if he is to win at the ballot box.

Jimmy Carter chose the American Legion's national convention at Seattle at the first testing ground in that effort since his nomination as the Democratic standard bearer this year.

The 9,000 members and guests in the audience accorded him a warm reception to the podium and cheered his recommendations for more benefits to veterans and a hard muscled, agile defense program capable of shooting up an aggressor's missile before it can

The applause turned to boos when he called for pardoning the Viet Nam war protestors en masse.

The negative reaction did not abate when he explained his understanding of the difference between pardon and

Amnesty is a sovereign act declaring no crime was perpetrated in the first

The crowd simmered down a bit when he said he would apply the amnesty-pardon distinction to draft dodgers, but not to military deserters on a mass basis. The latter would be processed individually through the military courts.

We shall have to wait until somebody like Gallup or Roper might take a poll on the Seattle speech's effect upon the voters to see if Carter scored a point or

His pitch on veteran benefits and national defense is the same as Ford's and the position of the two men on the Nam unchanged.

Carter's gain would have to come from people who applaud a candidate for bearding the lion in his den.

A number of reporters covering the speech pounced on Carter for manufacturing a distinction between amnesty and pardon because most dictionaries in general usage treat them as being synomynous, and because the public sees no substantial difference between them.

Going by the legal dictionaries and the decisions of courts down through the centuries, Carter has the right of it in this semantical argument.

Amnesty, express or implied, is the sovereign's declaration that what appeared to be a criminal offense is not

accommodating

At the height of the Viet Nam controversy a few years ago the draft dodgers consistently demanded amnesty from Washington on the ground of exercising a moral revolt to an immoral act of aggression by our government.

Just as consistently they rejected a pardon which the law regards as the forgiving of a sin. The draft dodgers contended they had not committed a wrongful act whatever.

As a skillful politico, Carter could care less about the distinction other than defining it for the benefit of two opposing viewpoints.

He hopes the Legionnaires will accept the idea of the draft dodgers still being regarded as naughty persons who have suffered long enough; and that the draft dodgers and their families will take the benefit of a pardon as a practical exchange for a philosophical position.

Hassling Carter on what can be found in separate pages of the dictionary misses Jimmy's completely.

The American Legion is not the political powerhouse it was when founded after World War I. Neither is Viet Nam the powder keg which prompted LBJ not to seek re-election eight years ago.

Together or separately they represent the kind of political tinder which can be sparked without danger of burning the house down.

I sincerely believe our American flag should be displayed and displayed properly. I do not believe Mrs. Burke intended misuse of the American flag nor do I believe she deserved the criticism given her. I do believe the American Legion and other concerned groups could assist everyone by making accessible a complete set of correct guidelines for American flag display, usage, etc.

St. Joe Concert Will Feature Mancini Music

An all-instrumental concert featuring music of Henry Mancini is scheduled for this Sunday's St. Joseph Municipal band concerts, according to John E. N. Howard, director. Howard said band member Richard Bressler will be conducting the band in his arrangements of Mancini's music and "The Hustle." Concerts begin at 2:30 and 7:30 p.m. at the St. Joseph bandshell. Bressler plays baritone saxophone and teaches instrumental music in the Dowagiac public schools.

Four marches are also in Sunday's program, including "The Gallant Seventh" by John Phillip Sousa, and "Stand Up For America" by J. William Middendorf, H. Claude Smith's "Incidental Sutte" and "Brass Espanol" by Lennie Niehaus will also be played.

Howard said concerts on Sunday, Sept. 5 and Labor Day, Sept. 6, remain in the band's 1976 season. The Sept. 5 concert will feature the Lee and Rita Henneberry Family in a unicycle act and Lisa Hightower singing selections from the Broadway play "The King and L." The Wittsche Family of St. Joseph will perform Bayarian bell songs and dances for the Labor Day

BERRIEN SLAYING TRIAL CONTINUES

No Premeditation, Judge Rules

By SCOTT WILLIAMSON Staff Writer

Circuit Judge William S. White Wednesday threw out a first degreee murder charge against Charles E. Neal but ruled the case could go to a jury on lesser charges.

White granted a defense motion for a directed verdict on the first degree murder charge after the prosecution had finished presenting its case. The judge ruled the prosecution had shown no evidence of premeditation, necessary for first degree murder

White, however, denied motions for directed verdicts on second degree murder and manslaughter charges. A directed verdict is an instruction by a judge to a jury to return a specific verdict - in this case "not guilty" to the first degree murder charge. Neal, 25, of 1200 East Empire avenue, Benton township, is accused of killing Laverne Cornelius, 17, who disappeared from her Benton township home Feb. 7, 1975. Parts of her decomposed body were later discovered in a Berrien township pine grove. Neal is the owner of Mr. Neal's karate school in Benton Harbor.

White said he would send the case to the jury on the lesser charges because the jury could infer Miss Cornelius' death was by unnatural causes, even though no cause of death has been shown during the trial. Testimony was scheduled to resume today in the Berrien county courthouse, St. Joseph.

Flavor-Hunting Researchers Study Meats In MSU Lab

EAST LANSING - How do you make soybeans taste more like meat? First discover what chemicals make meat taste like meat and then get to work on your computer.

A new research project at Michigan State university's department of food science and human nutrition will try unlocking the chemical secret of meat flavor by sampling natural chemical compounds extracted from meat.

Under the direction of Prof. Albert Pearson, a selected panel of tasters will be tested for their sensitivity to meat flavor and trained to score taste and aroma - the two sensory components that combine to give us a 'sense" of flavor.

"More than 100 naturally occurring chemicals have already been identified in meat," Dr.

Pearson said, "but we want to know which combinations of these compounds produce the best meat tastes.

Meat flavor depends not only on the kinds of chemicals in the meat, Dr. Pearson said, but on the relative amounts of each one and the way our taste buds and olfactory sensors perceive the combination.

Because the number of possible combinations, is so large, testing all of them would be too expensive and time consuming.

Taking a short-cut, Dr. Pearson will test a relatively small series of chemical combinations and then use a sophisticated statistical technique and MSU's computer to predict the best combinations.

Dr. Pearson has used the same technique to successfully predict the tastiest combina-

Current trends show that meat substitutes and meat extenders - vegetable matter added to meat - will comprise 10 per cent of the United States meat consumption by 1985, Dr. Pearson said.

Last week I began to feel queasy in the morning. Today the doctor told me I am PREG-NANT! I screamed, "Immossible, my husband has had a vascetomy!" The ductor gave me a wry hook and asked, "Do you have a lover?" I was you have a lover." I was shocked at his question and told him I didn't go in for that sort of thing. He replied, "Ask your bushand if he were back and had his seminal fluid checked six weeks after his surgery." Well, I asked him, Ann, and his answer was, "No, I forgot," Vesterday he returned to his doctor (furious that the ductor's office hadn't reminded him about the check- up) and sure

Debate Talks Planned Soon

WASHINGTON (AP) -Although some major legal isremain unresolved, representatives of President Ford and Jimmy Carter are ready to begin arranging details for the proposed debates between the presidential candidates.

Emissaries from both camps planned to discuss specifics today with officers of the League of Women Voters, which has offered to sponsor the series of televised debates.

The Federal Election Commission, meanwhile, also planned to meet to discuss the claim by some staff attorneys that the debate format proposed by the league might violate federal campaign financing

Peggy Lampi, executive director of the league, said this legal uncertainty looms as the biggest potential obstacle to the debates.

"It deeply concerns us," she said. "Not only could an adverse ruling by the election commission upset our plans, but it could preclude any appearance by presidential candidates before organizations general.

Daniel Swillinger, assistant general counsel for the commission, has claimed that the league-sponsored debates could violate the provision that forbids presidential candidates from accepting private contributions once they have agreed to accept public financ-

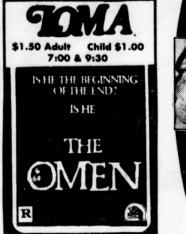

Both Ford and his Democratic challenger have gone the public-financing route, with each expected to get about $21 million in tax funds The league estimates that the debates will cost $150,000 most of which it plans to solicit from labor unions, corporations and other groups.

President Ford, who laid down the challenge to debate Carter in his acceptance speech last week's Republican National Convention, announced Wednesday that Dean Burch and William Ruckelshaus would represent him in the negotiations over the debates.

Burch, a former chairman of the Federal Communications Commission and deputy director of Barry Goldwater's 1964 presidential campaign, has served as an adviser in the President's re-election cam-

Ruckelshaus, who quit as deputy attorney general in 1973 rather than carry out the order of former President Richard M. Nixon to fire the special Watergate prosecutor, is a lumber firm executive in Tacoma. Wash. He has not played an active role in Ford's campaign.

Mondale Blasts Ford On Busing

NEW YORK (AP) - Sen. Walter F. Mondale says President Ford has "not been helpful" on court-ordered school busing and that political leaders should work to reduce the tensions and hostilities associated with busing.

Democratic presidential candidate said Wednesday that "a lot of people who are dealing with the politics (of busing) are exploiting anxieties and disruptions.'

When asked by reporters aboard his chartered jet aircraft on a flight here from Harrisburg. Pa., if he would include the President in this category. Mondale said:

KALKASKA, Mich. (AP) -Blood spattered the streets of this small Northern Michigan town three summers ago as unionized construction workers violently assailed use of nonunion workers at a $20 nullion relinery.

Un to 400 state troopers, more than one for every four of the town's 1,475 fulltime residents. were in Kalkaska when that bloody wave of mass protests, vandalism and physical violence hit its peak.

The troopers stayed nearly five months, costing taxpayers more than $300,000 just in overtime pay. There were more than 50 arrests while the Kalkaska conflict lasted. Today, about 150 union workers are building a $1 million addition to the same Shell Oil Co. refinery, But they didn't get the work without dropping some of their cherished contract provisions.

Leaders of 10 trade unions approved an unusual project agreement in order to get that work for their members. The unions formally signed a pledge tot to strike, cut their overtime rates, and abandoned their norinal payments for travel.

"We didn't want to get into the same sort of mess we did before," said Clifford Kilpa-trick, president of the Northern Michigan Building and Construction Trades Council.

There was some regression, if they choose to call it this, from our standards," Kilpatrick conceded about the agreement be signed. But he insisted, "I don't feel we've bargained away anything we were fighting for at that time (during the strife three years ago)."

Despite the changes, Kilpatrick and other union leaders said their members maintained their wage and fringe benefit

We have offered to come down on our overtime and such. We have not offered to work for $3 or $4 an hour or without fringe benefits as they were do ing three years ago," Kilpatrick

Northern Michigan's lack of bs was the basic reasons for the contract changes, according to Stan Arnold, secretary treasurer for the Michigan State Building and Trades Council.

"There's just no work in the area at all," Arnold argued. He estimated 45 per cent of building union members across Northern Michigan are jobless. Asked about the contrast union benefits in 1973 and the willingness to abandon some of them today, Arnold said, "It's the difference in the economies ow and three years ago. Contempt action by the House would be turned over to the courts and the question of Schorr's right to refuse to name his source therefore could be

President Ford did not specify what information in the report was secret but the document contained details on Navy sub-

The operations involved CIA support for the Angola faction that lost the recent givil war in that African nation, support in the past for Italian politicians, and for Kurdish rebels in Iraq.

The committee also voted to subpoena 18 more staff members of the disbanded in-telligence committee to testify starting Sept. 8.

Blood spattered the streets of this small Northern Michigan town three summers ago as unionized construction workers violently assailed use of nonunion workers at a $20 million refinery.

Up to 400 state troopers, more than one for every four of the town's 1.475 fulltime residents, were in Kalkaska when that bloody wave of mass protests, vandalism and physical violence hit its peak

The troopers stayed nearly five months, costing taxpayers more than $300,000 just in overtime pay. There were more than 50 arrests while the Kalkaska conflict lasted.

Today, about 150 union workers are building a $1 million addition to the same Shell Oil Co. refinery. But they didn't get the work without dropping some of their cherished contract provisions.

Leaders of 10 trade unions approved an unusual project agreement in order to get that work for their members. The unions formally signed a pledge hot to strike, cut their overtime rates, and abandoned their normal payments for travel.

"We didn't want to get into the same sort of mess we did before," said Clifford Kilpatrick, president of the Northern Michigan Building and Construction Trades Council.

"There was some regression, if they choose to call it this, from our standards," Kilpatrick conceded about the agreement he signed. But he insisted. "I don't feel we've bargained away anything we were fighting for at that time (during the strife three years ago)

Despite the changes, Kilpatrick and other union leaders said their members maintained their wage and fringe benefit standards.

"We have offered to come down on our overtime and such. We have not offered to work for $3 or $4 an hour or without fringe benefits as they were doing three years ago," Kilpatrick insisted.

Northern Michigan's lack of jobs was the basic reasons for the contract changes, according to Stan Arnold, secretarytreasurer for the Michigan State Building and Trades Council.

"There's just no work in the area at all," Arnold argued. He estimated 45 per cent of building union members across Northern Michigan are jobless.

Asked about the contrast between the battle to preserve union benefits in 1973 and the willingness to abandon some of them today, Arnold said, "It's the difference in the economies now and three years ago. The real fight three years ago was they were cutting wages and

Contempt action by the House could force a court decision on whether reporters have the right to refuse to reveal their news sources

But the House could avoid the fight on grounds that there is simply not enough time left in the present session to press it. Chairman John J. Flynt, D-

Ga., said the committee voted 8 to 4 Wednesday to authorize him to subpoena Schorr and 8 to 3 to subpoena three other witnesses to testify Sept. 15. Schorr has acknowledged that he is responsible for the intelligence committee's final report being published in the

weekly newspaper, after the House voted to keep it secret. The House took that action when President Ford said the report contained classified information that had been turned over to the committee.

The ethics committee also voted to subpoena Clay Felker, publisher of the Village Voice, and Aaron Latham and Sheldon Zalaznick, employees of New York magazine, which Felker also publishes.

Schorr had said weeks ago that if subpoenaed he would not tell the ethics committee who leaked the report to him. He restated that position in Los Angeles Wednesday after the panel made its decision.

"In appearing I will under no circumstances disclose or discuss my sources," Schorr said. "I feel that I have a moral and professional obligation to protect my source, and in so doing I rest on my First Amendment

He referred to the Constitution's First Amendment, which prohibits Congress from making any law that abridges freedom of the press.

Contempt action by the House would be turned over to the courts and the question of Schorr's right to refuse to name his source therefore could be carried to the Supreme Court. But since Schorr will not testify until Sept. 15, the House would have only two weeks, if it adjourns Oct. 2 as planned, to vote the contempt action against

There was speculation in the ethics committee that there would be enough time but that the committee also could recommend some lesser punishment, such as lifting Schorr's congressional press credentials.

Schorr, a Washington correspondent for CBS, has been under suspension by the network pending the outcome of the investigation.

President Ford did not specify what information in the report was secret but the document contained details on Navy sub-

BELIEVED STOLEN IN IOWA Cass Officers Impound Boats

ed what they described as five stolen sailboats valued at $30,000 from a wooded area southeast of here in Cass county's Calvin township. The sailboats were reportedly stolen from a truckstop near Bondurant Ia., on May 19 or 20. Police there said the boats were on a semi-trailer truck, which was also stolen. The truck has never been recovered.

The sailboats, ranging from 10 to 25 feet, were found in a wooded area off Hawks street, near Kessington road. Cass sheriff's deputies said the sailboats were discovered around 8:24 p.m. Tuesday through information provided by the Elkhart, Ind. county sheriff's department. Cass sheriff's deputies staked out the area Tuesday night and Wednesday morning in hopes someone would return for the boats.

Cass sheriff's detectives said three Cass county warrants charging possession of stolen property have been issued. The FBI has also been called in, and may seek federal warrants charging interstate transportation of stolen property, detectives said.

The sailboats are owned by O'Day Sailboat Co., Fall River, Mass. The semi-trailer truck is owned by Kenosha Auto Transport, Lancaster, Pa. The driver of the truck. Cecil Watkins, Ocala, Fla., said he was sleeping in a bunk house at the Iowa truckstup, when his rig and load of sailboats were driven away, Cass deputies said they were told.

'Bishop Baraga Day'

MARQUETTE, Mich. (AP) — Sunday has been proclaimed as "Bishop Baraga Day" among Upper Peninsula Roman Catholics. The head of the church's Marquette diocese, Bishop Charles Salatka, said Tuesday the day will include activities aimed at publicizing efforts to have Bishop Fredrick Baraga declared a Roman Catholic saint. Bishop Baraga, a native of Yugoslavia, came to northern Michigan in 1830, and worked there and in Wisconsin until his death in 1888. Efforts to cannotize the pioneer priest began in the 1930's. In 1972 Bishop Zalatka delivered a Id-volume history of Bishop Baraga to the Pope in Rome, but canonization is a lengthy procedure and no decision has yet been resched by high church officials. More than 1,000 Michigan and Wisconsin Catholics are expected to attend a Mass Sunday at Saint Peter's Cathedral in Marquette, where Bishop Baraga is buried

He'll Bring In 'Reality'

PONTIAC, Mich. AP) - Declaring he will bring reality to the Michigan Supreme Court, circuit Judge Richard D. Kuhn of Oakland County became the second person to announce he will oppose Supreme Court Chief Justice Thomas G. Kavanagh for the Democratic nomination. Kuhn made his announcement Wednesday, one day after former Detroit Mayor Roman S. Gribbs announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination. Gribbs is a Wayne County circuit judge. Kuhn, who has handled some 6,000 cases since being elected to the Oakland County Circuit Court bench in 1972, said a trial judge would give the Supreme Court a more practical perspective in dealing with criminal and civil appellate cases. "I'm going to try and bring some reality to the appellate court," he said.

Public Role In Lakes . . .

ST. CLAIR, Mich. (AP) - The Great Lakes Basin Commission will give more study to a plan calling for public involvement in questions such as drilling for gas on the lakes. Leonard Crook. executive director of the commission, said a committee would attempt to put the plan in final shape for presentation at the commission's November quarterly meeting in Duluth, Minn. Crook said one part of the comprehensive plan calls for public involvement in future questions about the Great Lakes. He said the public involvement proposal would help develop a comprehensive plan by ensuring that problems are solved through a consensus of residents and planners in the Great Lakes basin. Lake level regulations and the possibility of reopening the Great Lakes to oil and wet gas drilling were discussed at a caucus of the eight Great Lakes states.

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Gregory Curtner may continue serving as director of a staterun malpractice insurance fund even though members of his Detroit law firm practice before the state Department of Commerce, the state Board of Ethics has said. The buard said the Brown-MeNcely malpractice insurance fund is part of the commerce department. But it said Wednesday it has been assured that no attorneys from the firm of Miller, Canfield, Paddock and Stone will practice before the fund. Board members said they saw no problem if attorneys represent clients before other state agencies on matters unrelated to malpractice in-surance. Curtner has taken a part time leave of absence from 'he large law firm until Dec. 31 of this year to direct the operations of the fund, which issues malpractice insurance to doctors who cannot get it from private insurers.

Patient Transfer Opposed

DETROIT (AP) - Against her own wishes, a mental patient rom Ypsilanti State Hospital to a nursing home Wednesday in what the patient's guardian feels is a dangerous part of the city. The guardian, Ruth Cannin of Northville, said she did not want her sister transferred to the Berry Hume because it is on Detroit's east side. "I'm afraid to go to that neighborhood myself," she said. "Is this any place for a mentally ill woman? The patient, Faith Hildenbrand, did not want to be transferred i the home either. A Wayne County Probate Court order in May ordered her release from Yosilanti State Hospital because she die was not considered dangerous to herself or others was was able to take care of basic personal needs. Mrs. Cannon said she finally consented to the transfer because "it was clear to me that they would just dump her at my door otherwise."

highly toxic, odorless gas can be given off through the burning of pressure-sensitive copy paper, such as that used for application forms.

"Maybe a stack of the forms was burning in an incinerator and the furnes were picked up in an air duct," he suggested. He said he had proposed the theory to Pennsylvania health authorities. But he sald he had no evidence such forms were used or burned in the vicinity of the convention hall or the botels

Tissue samples were sent to the University of Connecticut team Aug. 10 after scientists noted the legionnaires' disease victims were exhibiting symp-toms similar to classic nickel carbonyl poisoning cases; delayed reaction (three days to three weeks after exposure), headaches, nausea, chest pain, coughing and possible death

Sunderman, however, noted one difference in symptoms: nickel poisoning rarely involves high fevers, but legionnaires' disease victims have suffered fevers up to 108 degrees.

The work completed Wednesday by the Connecticut researchers was the second round of tests the group has made on tissue samples from vicims of the disease.

The first tests, completed ig. 12, also showed high nickel levels, but the results were judged inconclusive because of suspected contamination suspected contamination through contact with metal utensits or containers, Sunder-

New, But Improved

MONTPELIER, Vt. (AP) - From the man who brought you canoed "Vermont Green Mountain Air" comes, what else but "New Improved Vermont Green Mountain Air." John Bramblett, a 29-year-old air pollution engineer, said the second edition of his 12-ounce cans is meant to satisfy the few disgruptied customers who criticized him for selling a product which actually came from Massachusetts. Bramblett said he has found a way to capture Vermont's atmosphere in the cans, which previously contained Bay State air because his original 3,000-can order was manufactured in New Bedford, Mass. "The probably still get the cans out-of-state because there isn't any place in Vermont that makes them. But now I'll stick a hole in pace in vermion that makes been both to low It is used a note in in;" said Bramblett, who operates his business from his bome in rural Moretown. "And then I'll put a seal over the hole to keep the Vermont air in." Bramblett said he came up with the idea last spring as an attempt to prolong his ties with the Green Mountain State — "Besides, I thought it was a good way."

To see a humanosse side out to the public and I didn't think I'll not a humanosse side out to the public and I didn't think I'll not a humanosse side. to get a humorous idea out to the public, and 1 didn't think I should scrap it because there wasn't any place to can it in Vermont." ## A Crushing Blow

SEATTLE (AP) — The roof has fallen in on Wayne Bliesoer's ambition to win the $89,000 pelze offered by a British industrialist to the first person who successfully builds a people-powered airplane. The 22-year-old Bellevue man arrived at the Beltingham (Wash.) Airport to hook up the propeller on his 220-pound, pedal-powered airplane, only to find his makeshift hangar of wood and plastic had collapsed.

Parts of the delicate aircraft's wings were crushed.

And so was Blesner. He said he has spent $2,000 and more than 2,000 hours building the airplane. "I just pulled the wood off the plane and came home," he said. "I didn't feel like doing much work." It will take about three weeks to repair the plane, Bliesner said. "I can't give up now."

Nickel Gas Link Eyed In Deaths

"Maybe a stack of the forms was burning in an incinerator and the fumes were picked up in an air duct," he suggested.

He said he had proposed the theory to Pennsylvania health authorities. But he said he had no evidence such forms were used or burned in the vicinity of the convention hall or the hotels where the legionnaires staved.

Sunderman had previously termed nickel carbonyl "a longshot," saying there was little chance the victims could have been exposed to the gas.

Tissue samples were sent to the University of Connecticut team Aug. 10 after scientists noted the legionnaires' disease victims were exhibiting symptoms similar to classic nickel carbonyl poisoning cases: delayed reaction (three days to three weeks after exposure), headaches, nausea, chest pain, coughing and possible death.

Sunderman, however, noted one difference in symptoms: nickel poisoning rarely involves high fevers, but legionnaires' disease victims have suffered fevers up to 108 degrees

The work completed Wednesday by the Connecticut researchers was the second round of tests the group has made on tissue samples from vicims of the disease

The first tests, completed Aug. 12, also showed high nickel levels, but the results were judged inconclusive because of suspected contamination through contact with metal utensils or containers, Sunderman said.

A new batch of tissue samples identified only by coded tags arrived in Connecticut last Friday. Special precautions were taken to avoid contact with metal.

The eight specimens went through the same procedures as the first set of samples: "digestion" in an acid bath, removal of iron and other interfering substances and extraction and measurement of nickel.

Three of the specimens showed normal nickel levels, and five exhibited "very elevated" concentrations of the substance, Sunderman said.

A call to Pennsylvania health authorities broke the code and revealed that the three normal specimens were in fact the control samples, and the five elevated samples were from legionnaires' disease victims.

New, But Improved

MONTPELIER, Vt. (AP) - From the man who brought you canned "Vermont Green Mountain Air" comes, what else but New Improved Vermont Green Mountain Air." John Bramblett, a 29-year-old air pollution engineer, said the second edition of his 12-ounce cans is meant to satisfy the few disgruntled customers who criticized him for selling a product which actually came from Massachusetts. Bramblett said he has found a way to capture Vermont's atmosphere in the cans, which previously contained Bay State air because his original 3,000-can order was manufactured in New Bedford, Mass. "I'll probably still get the cans out-of-state because there isn't any place in Vermont that makes them. But now I'll stick a hole in the can to let the Massachusetts air out and the Vermont air in," said Bramblett, who operates his business from his home in rural Moretown. "And then I'll put a seal over the hole to keep the Vermont air in." Bramblett said he came up with the idea last spring as an attempt to prolong his ties with the Green Mountain State - "Besides, I thought it was a good way to get a humorous idea out to the public, and I didn't think I should scrap it because there wasn't any place to can it in Vermont." He said there will be no boost in the $2-per-can price even though the new containers will have to be opened and "aged in Vermont" before being sold.

A Crushing Blow

SEATTLE (AP) - The roof has fallen in on Wayne Bliesner's ambition to win the $89,000 prize offered by a British industrialist to the first person who successfully builds a people-powered airplane. The 22-year-old Bellevue man arrived at the Bellingham (Wash.) Airport to hook up the propeller on his 220-pound, pedal-powered airplane, only to find his makeshift hangar of wood and plastic had collapsed. Parts of the delicate aircraft's wings were crushed.

And so was Bliesner. He said he has spent $2,000 and more than 2,000 hours building the airplane. "I just pulled the wood off the plane and came home," he said. "I didn't feel like doing much work." It will take about three weeks to repair the plane, Bliesner said. "I can't give up now."

September Start Set For Lake Water Job

A $3,423,565 contract to expand Lake township's water system was formally awarded Wednesday by the Berrien county board of public works (BPW).

Woodruff & Sons Construction Co. of Michigan City received the contract for construction of 45 miles of distribution mains that will bring water and fire protection service to 90 per cent of the township. The BPW tentaliyely awarded the contract to the same firm in May and sold $5 million worth of bonds to finance the water

Senate Okays Clearcutting

WASHINGTON (AP) - The House Agriculture Committee is looking over legislation that would once again open national forests to the clearcutting of trees by private companies under government permits.

The Senate voted without dissent on Wednesday to allow the base bid of $562,000 was one of 11 for construction opened last night during a special meeting of the Van Buren intermediate school board. In all, 35 different contractors and companies sub-mitted bids in four areas. Other apparent low bidders

Other apparent low bidders included: mechanical work, Suburban Mechanical, Inc., Kalamazoo, $409,900; electrical work, Inter-City Electric, Benion Harbor, $115,340; and general equipment, State Wide Equipment, Dearborn, $11,892.

Together, the four base bids totaled $1,118,632. Last February, intermediate district voters approved a $1,010,000 bond issue to build and equip the school, which will be located near the present intermediate district offices. A one-half mill tax levy will be used to pay off

Supt. Ernest Shaw said the bids will now be turned over to the district's architects, Richard Prince and Associates, Kalamazoo, for study, with final recommendation to be made at the board's Sept. 1 meeting.

Shaw said that determining how close the bids are to the $1.010.000 cost estimate is very difficult because of the number of alternates included. The general contract work alone had eight alternates, which could add or subtract from the price depending upon whether or not they are adopted. The supintendent did say, however, that plans to heat part of the school by solar power are no longer feasible in view of the bids. The use of solar power was not included in original cost estimates, but was added by the board as an alternate.

Subtracting the solar power alternates from the base bids would leave costs at $978,232. That figure does not include the cost of furniture, which was not bid last night.

Construction of the facility is scheduled to be completed within 300 days of the awarding

Senate Okays Clearcutting

WASHINGTON (AP) - The House Agriculture Committee is looking over legislation that would once again open national forests to the clearcutting of trees by private companies under government permits.

The Senate voted without dissent on Wednesday to allow the base bid of $562,000 was one of 11 for construction opened last night during a special meeting of the Van Buren intermediate school board. In all, 35 different contractors and companies submitted bids in four areas.

Other apparent low bidders included: mechanical work, Suburban Mechanical, Inc., Kalamazoo, $409,900; electrical work, Inter-City Electric, Benton Harbor, $115,340; and general equipment, State Wide Equipment, Dearborn, $31,392.

Together, the four base bids totaled $1,118,632. Last February, intermediate district voters approved a $1,010,000 bond issue to build and equip the school, which will be located near the present intermediate district offices. A one-half mill tax levy will be used to pay off the bonds.

Supt. Ernest Shaw said the bids will now be turned over to district's architects, Richard Prince and Associates, Kalamazoo, for study, with final recommendation to be made at the board's Sept. 1 meeting.

Shaw said that determining how close the bids are to the $1,010,000 cost estimate is very difficult because of the number of alternates included. The general contract work alone had eight alternates, which could add or subtract from the price depending upon whether or not

The supintendent did say, however, that plans to heat part of the school by solar power are no longer feasible in view of the bids. The use of solar power was not included in original cost estimates, but was added by the board as an alternate.

Subtracting the solar power alternates from the base bids would leave costs at $978,232. That figure does not include the cost of furniture, which was not bid last night.

Construction of the facility is scheduled to be completed within 300 days of the awarding of contracts.

Mother Loses Round In Adoption Fight

By SUSAN AGER

Associated Press Writer LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The Michigan Supreme Court has handed a temporary legal victory to the adoptive parents of a 5-year-old girl whose natural mother is fighting to get her

The court Wednesday ordered the couple's 4-year-old case re-turned to the Monroe County

Circuit Court.
It told the court to decide vithin 30 days the fate of Maria S. Weldon based on "the best interests of the child" as outlined in the Child Custody Act. That law is typically used to decide which parent will get custody of a child in a divorce proceeding.

But Gube Kaimowitz, a De-

Experts Debate Breastfeeding

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) -Top Michigan scientists are battling over whether Michigan mothers should stop breastfeeding their children, in light of recent reports finding PBB in mothers' milk

A group of physicians and health experts meeting at Tuesday the University of Michigan said, with current information on the chemical, they could not agree with an Ann Arbor researcher who called for a prohibition on breastfeeding.

The meeting, chaired by Dr. J. Robert Willson, U-M chairman of obstetrics and gynecology, was called in response to a report on polybrominated biphenyl (PBB) issued last Friday by the Michigan Department of Health.

The report said samples of milk from 26 nursing mothers in the state showed 22 of the samples contained both PBB a related chemical, polychlorinated biphenyl

PBB got into the human food supply when it was accidentally mixed with animal feed.

Dr. Thomas Corbett, Ann Arbor reseach scientist who has linked PBB to cancer in laboratory mice, last week advised Michigan mothers to stop breast feeding babies because of potential health dangers to the infants.

Tuesday's gathering unanimously approved a statement deploring "the continuing and unnecessary contamination of the environment by potentially harmful subs-

-No one knows the effect of long-term ingestion of PBB. Experimental work with the substance has only been done on laboratory animals, the scientists said, and the amounts of PBB used in animal tests is far greater than that to which Michigan residents have been

The court Wednesday ordered the couple's 4-year-old case returned to the Monroe County Circuit Court.

Both Slates — Period

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — State officials say the general election ballot can take both slates of the American Independent Party as ordered by the state Court of Appeals — but no more. The appeals court Wednesday ruled that both AIP factions be included on the Nov. 3 ballot. The attorney general immediately appealed the NOV. 2 bands. The attorney general minecutately appeared the number of parties slated for the ballot in most areas of the state to nine — the maximum elections officials say can be included. "We have no more leverage," said Elections Director Bernard Apol. But at least two more court cases are pending which could result in other parties or persons being added to the ballot. The result could be a switch to cumbersome, time consuming paper ballots, and elete officials must know only those for some time. ballots, and state officials must know quickly how to set up the ballot in any case. The appeals court told the two competing AIP factions to instruct the Secretary of State's office what party vignettes they want on the ballot. It said state law is not clear on how to deal with such party splits, so both can go on the ballot.

Teacher Contracts Lag In Michigan

LANSING, Mich. (AP) -Teachers in almost half of Michigan's school districts are without contracts for the fall. though districts with contracts negotiated enroll 60 per cent of the state's school children.

Figures from the state Board of Education show teachers in 258 districts, or 49 per cent, still are negotiating contracts for the 1976-77 school year.

Seven of those districts without contract agreements report they have reached an impasse, and 12 are among the state's 35 largest districts. Another 243 districts, or 46 requested fact-finding.

per cent, have ratified contracts for the 1976-77 school year.

Five per cent of the districts, or 29, have tentative agreements not yet ratified by the teachers, the school board or both.

The State Board said last year at this time, 49 per cent of the districts with 51 per-cent of the state's pupils still were nego-

Both Slates - Period

LANSING, Mich. (AP) - State officials say the general election ballot can take both slates of the American Independent Party as ordered by the state Court of Appeals - but no more. The appeals court Wednesday ruled that both AIP factions be included on the Nov. 2 ballot. The attorney general immediately appealed the decision to the state Supreme Court. The ruling brings the number of parties slated for the ballot in most areas of the state to nine — the maximum elections officials say can be included. "We have no more leverage," said Elections Director Bernard Apol. But at least two more court cases are pending which could result in other parties or persons being added to the ballot. The result could be a switch to cumbersome, time consuming paper ballots, and state officials must know quickly how to set up the ballot in any case. The appeals court told the two competing AIP factions to instruct the Secretary of State's office vignettes they want on the ballot. It said state law is not clear on how to deal with such party splits, so both can go on the ballot.

The year of the Really Big Flight was 1964. A boyfriend who had recently gotten his private pilot's license, kept saying, "I'll take you up and show you the lights of Les Angeles at midnight," recalled.

After about four months of this, she said with a laugh, she made out her will and went with her beau to Santa Monica Airport, where a single-engine Cessna 172 was waiting. They took off at night.

"It was one of those extraordinary clear nights," she said.
"He kept saying, 'Isn't it beautiful,' and I kept saying, 'Oh, my God!' But then the concept the idea of flight got to me. It was fascinating.

Shortly after sunset a man beating a drum to draw attention informed his listeners of the Gaspee's plight and urged patriots to destroy that vessel. Mexico is "a giant leap forward for mankind.'

Butz was scheduled to help dedicate a new $14-million screwworm fly factory in Tuxtla Gutierrez, Mexico, which will produce sterile male flies to be dropped across a 125-mile wide isthmus

Screwworms are maggots that infest livestock and kill them if left untreated. After they emerge from eggs laid in open wounds, the worms feed on the living flesh of an animal. Humans also can be affected.

"By limiting the ability of the screwworm fly to reproduce, we can literally cause this deadly pest to breed itself out of existence," Butz said.

Mexican president Luis Echeverria was scheduled to join Butz in the dedication ceremony. A text of Butz's prepared remarks was released here by his office.

"As we dedicate this new plant, we too are taking a giant leap forward for mankind," Butz said. "It's not as breathtaking as a victory in space 238,000 miles away. But it's just as important.

It is the nature of the female screwworm fly to mate but once in her life. By mating with the artificially sterilized males, the female will lay eggs that do not hatch and thus not reproduce a new generation of pests.

Screwworms have been a problem in Mexico and the southwest United States for many years. The sterile fly control technique has been used create a safety zone along the U.S.-Mexico border, but results have not been wholly successful.

The plan now is to use the new fly factory to produce enough sterile male flies to set up another line of resistance across the southern isthmus of Tehuantepec. But officials say it will take five to seven years of steady aerial fly bombardment to make the zone effective.

'We're taking a leap forward in a struggle that began before the dawn of civilization, the battle between insects and man for the precious food supply on this planet," Butz said.

Politics, Shoving Match Show Tennis Not Staid

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

There's nothing staid about the grand old game of tennis

-Politics scored an ace in Philadelphia, where women's tennis teams from the Philippines and Hungary joined those from the Soviet Union and Czechoslovakia Wednesday in withdrawing from the Federation Cup.

The Soviet Union and Czechoslovakia, protesting the appearance in Philadelphia of white supremacist countries Rhodesia and South Africa, were suspended from the 1977 Federation Cup and may be fined by the International Lawn Tennis Association. No sanctions were announced against the Phillipines and Hungary.

-Romania's fiery Ilie Nastase and Australia's Colin Dibley played a different kind of net game, engaging in a shoving match in South Orange, N.J., at the Tennis Week Open. No punches were thrown.

"He's a peasant," said Nastase, who eventually won the

"That guy's got no class at all," said Dibley. "I have no respect for that guy at all."

-The women's bracket of the Tennis Week Open was to continue today, with Dr. Renee Richards, the transexual who has won her first two matches, meeting Kathy Harter in a quarter-

President Ferdinand Marcos ordered the Philippines team home from Philadelphia. "This action is in keeping with policy of the Philippines government in support for the U.N. General Assembly resolutions on apartheid sports," a cable from Mar-

The Philippines' withdrawal moved England into the quarter-finals, joining Australia, West Germany, Switzerland and Denmark in the third round. Evonne Goolagong and Diane Fromholtz scored victories in Australia's 3-0 triumph over Belgium. West Germany beat Italy 3-0 and Switzerland and Denmark beat Canada and Uruguay, respectively, by 2-1 scores.

The United States team plays Yugoslavia Thursday night in a second-round match. Chris Evert will not be able to play in the match because of a sore right hand. She is undergoing treatment in Fort Lauderdale, Fla. and hopes to play this weekend in the $130,000 tournament.

The other U.S. players, Rosemary Casals and Billie Jean King, will play in the three matches. No substitutions are allowed in the Federation Cup.

The incident between Nastase and Dibley began was triggered by the following exchange between the two players

"Hey, we're playing a tennis match," said Dibley after Nastase was engaged in conversation with a spectator.

Nastase replied, "Yeah, but you don't play tennis good enough

Dibley walked to the net, as did Nastase. They exchanged words softly, then Dibley pushed Nastase and Nastase pushed back. They both then returned to their respective baselines.

In other matches, Balazs Taroczy of Hungary upset thirdseeded Vita Gerulaitis of New York 6-2, 2-6, 6-4; Yugoslavia's Zeljko Franulovic rallied to upset sixth-seeded Dick Stockton of Dallas 3-6, 6-1, 7-6, and second-seeded Roscoe Tanner of Lookout Mountain, Tenn., blitzed Tim Noonan of Springfield, Ohio 6-2,

In the U.S. Pro Tennis Championships at Brookline, Mass., top-seeded Jimmy Connors won his 21st consecutive match; but U.S. Open champion Manuel Orantes fell victim to a muscle problem and Italy's Paolo Bertolucci 6-4, 6-4, in the first round.

The problem with his left arm may prevent Orantes of Spain, the No. 4 seed, from defending his U.S. Open title next week. "I'll have another check-up and then decide on Forest Hills," said Orantes.

Connors, bidding for his fourth straight tournament victory, had no trouble disposing of Victor Pecci of Paraguay 6-4, 6-3 in their second-round match.

Other second-round winners were Adriano Panatta of Italy and Australians Ross Case and Mark Edmondson. Other firstround winners were Argentina's Guillermo Vilas and Wojtek Fibak of Poland.

In the women's invitational tournamement at Harrison, N.Y. seventh-seeded Jeannie Evert of Fort Lauderdale, Fla. joined top-seeded Terry Holladay on the sidelines. Betsy Nagelson of Winnetka, Ill. beat Miss Evert 3-6, 6-2, 6-2.

'Bird' Bigger Hit Than Ruth

DETROIT (AP) - Babe Ruth and the man who broke the fabled slugger's home run record, Hank Aaron, may have to take a back seat to Mark "The Bird" Fidrych.

"Babe Ruth didn't cause that much excitement in his brightest day," said 67-year-old Manager Paul Chicago Richards, who was a major league baseball player in the Ruth era.

Fidrych had just fired a fivehitter at Richards' White Sox, retiring the last 13 batters, as the Detroit Tigers took a 3-1 victory Wednesday night. The only Chicago run was unearned.

It was The Bird's 15th victory against just five losses and his 18th complete game in 21 starts. Chicago was the only team he hadn't faced, but now he has beaten every team in the American League at least once.

Fidrych's major league-leading earned-run-average dropped from 2.22 to 2.11 and he raised his home record to 11-3 - all complete games

The crowd of 39.884 raised attendance at the last 13 Fidrych games, home and away, to 551,123 — an average of 42,394.

Ralph Garr, former National League batting champion with Atlanta and Chicago's hitting leader with a .311 average, said playing against Fidrych was one of the most exciting things in my life - and I was there when Henry Aaron got his

Twenty victories seems almost inevitable for Fidrych.

"How can I say I'm going to win 20 this year," he said.

"That would be popp'n off." A 20-victory year would be just "an okay season," Fidrych said. "Once you're satisfied with what you do, you won't do

He said he couldn't be fully satisfied unless he won every

The White Sox run came in the fifth. Jack Brohamer led off with a single. Jerry Hairston hit a two-out single to right that bounced past Ben Oglivie for an error allowing Brohamer to score. However, Oglivie made great running catches in the fourth, sixth and seventh. Oglivie also had a triple, single, stolen base and scored once.

"He ended up having a hell of a night," said Tiger Manager Ralph Houk, who was still chortling over the performance of Fidrych.

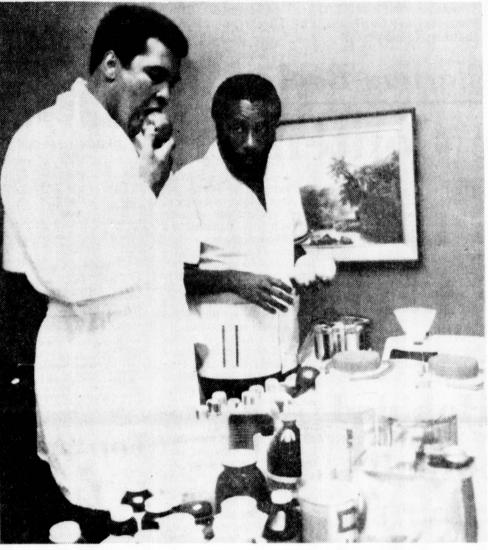

"It's amazing he hasn't had more games where his stuff wasn't there," Houk said of The Bird. "He's been so consistent."

Richards said Tuesday Fidrych was "just another pitcher to me.

Wednesday he said: "He's got all the tools - delivery, control, intelligence and change of speed. He pitches like some guy who's been pitching 20 years, except for the histrionics. He might need them to put people in the seats but he doesn't need them to pitch.'

The histrionics refer to The Bird's habits, including: talking to the ball, stalking around the mound, pointing to the plate with the ball and getting on his hands and knees to smooth out the mound.

Ali said he would begin training Sept. 7 at Kiamesha Lake, N.Y., where he would live in private quarters under tight securify.

The champion also had to come down out of the mountains today to make an appearance in Washington where he was to put on an exhibition Friday, address the National Press Club and attend a World Boxing Association dinner. He was scheduled to return to this 6,400-foot high community of 3,378 people Saturday.

But while Ali was to entertain the WBA, he said he was going to punish the rival World Boxing Council.

The WBC announced from Mexico City last week that if Ali beats Norton he must defend against George Foreman in 90 days or be stripped of the title. "I'm gonna punish them for that," said Ali, his face folding into a sneer. "I made boxing the world over and they're gonna take the title like I'm ducking somebody. I don't need a title. I'm above the

ED BADGER

Badger, 43, a former Iowa Hawkeyes star named Wednesday as coach of the National Basketball Association team that went from the playoffs to the cellar in one season, said the Bulls have "a lot of problems." "Our guards ranked among the worst shooters in the league last season," Badger said. But Badger, who was signed to a multi-year contract after serving as assistant coach and head scout since 1973, said his promotion was "the realization of a dream. "You've got to feel good about something like this because coaching one of the 22 NBA clubs is being at the top of your profession." Badger, reached in Los Angeles where he was coaching one of the Bulls' summer clubs, said.

Badger, a native of West New York, N.J., becomes the third coach in the Bulls' 11-year history. He succeeds Dick Motta who left at the end of last season to become coach of the Washington Bullets.

Under Badger, a veteran of 20 years of high school and college coaching, Wright College of Chicago won 20 or more games for 14 straight campaigns. He was on the U.S. Olympic basketball committee and was one of a dozen coaches who selected the winning U.S. gold medal team in Montreal.

Badger was assistant coach of the 1970 World University Games team which finished 19-1 and in 1972 coached the Austrian National team. In 1974 he was head coach of MILAN, Italy (AP) American opera singers Shirley Verrett and Marilyn Horne will be the stars of La Scala theater when the Milan company makes a Bicentennial tour of the United States next month.

Mexico is "a giant leap forward for mankind."

Butz was scheduled to help dedicate a new $14-million screwworm fly factory in Tuxtla Gutierrez, Mexico, which will produce sterile male flies to be dropped across a 125-mile wide isthmus.

Screwworms are maggots that infest livestock and kill them if left untreated. After they emerge from eggs laid in open wounds, the worms feed on the living flesh of an animal. Humans also can be affected.

"By limiting the ability of the screwworm fly to reproduce, we can literally cause this deadly pest to breed itself out of exis-tence," Butz said.

Mexican president Luis Echeverria was scheduled to join Butz in the dedication ceremony. A text of Butz's prepared remarks was released here by his office, screwworm fly production plant, we too are taking a giant leap forward for mankind," Butz said. "It's not as breathtaking as a victory in space 238,000 miles away. But it's just as important."

It is the nature of the female screwworm fly to mate but once in her life. By mating with the artificially sterilized males, the female will lay eggs that do not hatch and thus not reproduce a new,generation of pests.

Screwworms have been a problem in Mexico and the southwest United States for many years. The sterile fly control technique has been used since 1962 in an attempt to create a safety zone along the U.S. Mexico border, but results have not been wholly successful.

The plan now is to use the new fly factory to produce enough sterile male flies to set up another line of resistance across the southern isthmus of Tehnantepec. But officials say it will take five to seven years of steady aerial fly bombardment to make the zone effective.

We're taking a leap forward in a struggle that began before the dawn of civilization, the battle between insects and man for the precious food supply on this planet." Butz said.

Politics, Shoving Match Show Tennis Not Staid

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

There's nothing staid about the grand old game of tennis anymore

-Politics scored an ace in Philadelphia, where women's tennis teams from the Philippines and Hungary joined those from the Soviet Union and Czechoslovakia Wednesday in withdrawing from the Federation Cup.

The Soviet Union and Czechoslovakia, protesting the appearance in Philadelphia of white supremacist countries Rhodesia and South Africa, were suspended from the 1977 Federation Cup and may be fined by the International Lawn Tennis Association. No sanctions were announced against the Phillipines and Hungary.

-Romania's fiery Ilie Nastase and Australia's Colin Dibley played a different kind of net game, engaging in a shoving match in South Orange, N.J., at the Tennis Week Open. No punches were thrown

"He's a peasant," said Nastase, who eventually won the match 6-4, 6-3.

"That guy's got no class at all," said Dibley. "I have no respect for that guy at all."

-The women's bracket of the Tennis Week Open was to continue today, with Dr. Renee Richards, the transexual who has won her first two matches, meeting Kathy Harter in a quarterfinal match

President Ferdinand Marcos ordered the Philippines team home from Philadelphia. "This action is in keeping with policy of the Philippines government in support for the U.N. General Assembly resolutions on apartheid sports," a cable from Marcos said.

The Philippines' withdrawal moved England into the quarter-finals, joining Australia, West Germany, Switzerland and Denmark in the third round. Evonne Goolagong and Diane Fromholtz scored victories in Australia's 3-0 triumph over Belgium. West Germany beat Italy 3-0 and Switzerland and Denmark beat Canada and Uruguay, respectively, by 2-1 scores.

The United States team plays Yugoslavia Thursday night in a second-round match. Chris Evert will not be able to play in the match because of a sore right hand. She is undergoing treatment in Fort Lauderdale, Fla. and hopes to play this weekend in

The other U.S. players, Rosemary Casals and Billie Jean King, will play in the three matches. No substitutions are allowed in the Federation Cup.

The incident between Nastase and Dibley began was triggered by the following exchange between the two players.

"Hey, we're playing a tennis match," said Dibley after Nas-tase was engaged in conversation with a spectator. Nastase replied, "Yeah, but you don't play tennis good enough

Dibley walked to the net, as did Nastase. They exchanged words softly, then Dibley pushed Nastase and Nastase pushed back. They both then returned to their respective baselines

In other matches, Balazs Taroczy of Hungary upset thirdseeded Vita Gerulaitis of New York 6-2, 2-6, 6-4; Yugoslavia's Zeljko Franulovic rallied to upset sixth-seeded Dick Stockton of Dallas 3-6, 6-1, 7-6, and second-seeded Roscoe Tanner of Lookout Mountain, Tenn., blitzed Tim Noonan of Springfield, Ohio 6-2,

In the U.S. Pro Tennis Championships at Brookline, Mass., top-seeded Jimmy Connors won his 21st consecutive match; but U.S. Open champion Manuel Orantes fell victim to a muscle problem and Italy's Paolo Bertolucci 6-4, 6-4, in the first round.

The problem with his left arm may prevent Orantes of Spain, the No. 4 seed, from defending his U.S. Open title next week. "I'll have another check-up and then decide on Forest Hills," said Orantes

Connors, bidding for his fourth straight tournament victory, had no trouble disposing of Victor Pecci of Paraguay 6-4, 6-3 in

Other second-round winners were Adriano Panatta of Italy and Australians Ross Case and Mark Edmondson. Other firstround winners were Argentina's Guillermo Vilas and Wojtek Fibak of Poland.

In the women's invitational tournament at Harrison, N.Y, seventh-seeded Jeannie Evert of Fort Lauderdale, Fla. joined top-seeded Terry Holladay on the sidelines. Betsy Nagelson of Winnetka, Ill. beat Miss Evert 3-6, 6-2, 6-2.

'Bird' Bigger Hit Than Ruth

DETROIT (AP) - Babe Ruth and the man who broke the fabled slugger's home run record, Hank Aaron, may have to take a back seat to Mark "The Bird" Fidrych.

"Babe Ruth didn't cause that much excitement in his brightest day," said 67-year-old Manager Paul Chicago Richards, who was a major league baseball player in the Ruth era.

Fidrych had just fired a fivehitter at Richards' White Sox, retiring the last 13 batters, as the Detroit Tigers took a 3-1 victory Wednesday night. The only Chicago run was unearned.

It was The Bird's 15th victory against just five losses and his 18th complete game in 21 starts. Chicago was the only team he hadn't faced, but now he has beaten every team in the American League at least once.

Fidrych's major league-leading earned-run-average dropped from 2.22 to 2.11 and he raised his home record to 11-3 — all complete games.

The crowd of 39,884 raised attendance at the last 13 Fidrych games, home and away, to 551,123 — an average of 42,394.

Ralph Garr, former National League batting champion with Atlanta and Chicago's hitting leader with a .311 average, said playing against Fidrych was "one of the most exciting things in my life - and I was there when Henry Aaron got his

Twenty victories seems almost inevitable for Fidrych.

"How can I say I'm going to win 20 this year," he said. "That would be popp'n off."

A 20-victory year would be just "an okay season," Fidrych said. "Once you're satisfied with what you do, you won't do

He said he couldn't be fully satisfied unless he won every

The White Sox run came in the fifth. Jack Brohamer led off with a single. Jerry Hairston hit a two-out single to right that bounced past Ben Oglivie for an error allowing Brohamer to score. However, Oglivie made great running catches in the fourth, sixth and seventh. Oglivie also had a triple, single, stolen base and scored once.

"He ended up having a hell of a night." said Tiger Manager Ralph Houk, who was still chortling over the performance

"It's amazing he hasn't had more games where his stuff wasn't there," Houk said of The Bird. "He's been so consistent."

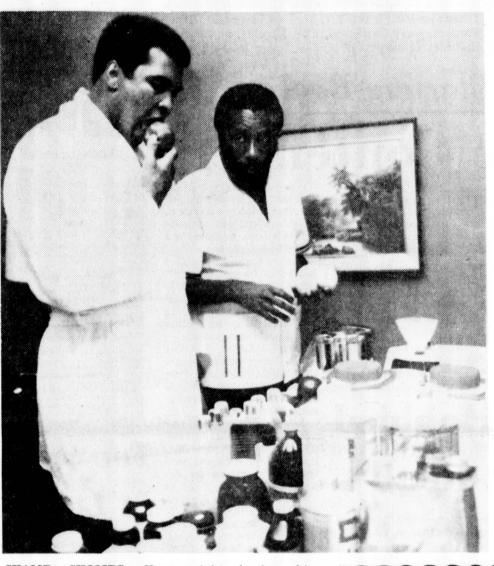

Tuesday Richards said Fidrych was "just another pitcher to me.

Wednesday he said: "He's got all the tools - delivery, control, intelligence and change of speed. He pitches like some guy who's been pitching 20 years, except for the histrionics. He might need them to put people in the seats but he doesn't need them to pitch.

The histrionics refer to The Bird's habits, including: talking to the ball, stalking around the mound, pointing to the plate with the ball and getting on his hands and knees to smooth out the mound.

Leading the Tiger returners is Jelf Queen, a first team linebacker as a junior last year. The 6-0, 195-pounder led his team in tackles, averaging almost nine a game.

Owen will also be the Tieers' starting fullback. Kevin Trieshave the starting tailback slot nailed down.

The other returning starters include offensive tackle-defensive lineman senior Keith Mann (5-10, 235) and offensive guard segior Tom Blum (5-8, 150).

Besides Queen and Triestram to find a swingback among junior Greg Staffen (5-8, 150-pounds) and junior Ron Beam (5-10, 155). Junior Brian Reynolds (5-8, 150) will be the backup tailback.

Quarterback is one big question mark for Coady this season. Gone is Dave Congdon, the Clark Zaleski a 6-0, 175-pound senior and returning letterman looks to be the Tigers' field is if we can move the ball consistently on the ground," says Coady, who is in his fourth year as head coach.

On the offensive line, Blum will be switched from guard to center but will be pressed by pinior Chuck Carpp.

Two senior returning better. men, 5-10, 185-pound Dan Hill 470-pound Mark Thornhill, will anchor the guard filled by either senior Carl Zoodsma (5-10, 180) or junior Dave Butler (5-9, 180).

The end spots are wide open, according to Coady. Top people in line for the jobs are junior Paul Makra (5-9, 150), senior Jim Mason (6-1, 170), senior Bunky Kidd (5-6, 150) and senior Dennis Kidd (5-8, 150).

As with most small schools most of the offensive players will also see double duty. Queen and Zaleski are the linebackers while Mann, Hill and Thornhill play the line. Mason, Staffen, Triemstram and Beam are set to go in the backfield.

"Our biggest strength is our attitude." Coady said. "We're going to need help at quarter-back and offensive back and will have to work on consistency.

Steve Blass no longer is with the Pittsburgh Pirates, but the former World Series hero's presence still is evident — in the pitching of Bruce Kison.

Kison remembering some tips given to him by Blass, fired a five-hitter Wednesday night, pitching the Pirates to a 340 victory over the San Diego

After striking out six and not walking a batter en route to his first shutout of the season, Kison, 10-8, said: "My changeup was going real good. I picked up that pitch from Steve Bla he was with the club. It's taken me a couple of years to get the confidence to use it and now I use it in spots. Tonight, it worked very well,"

Blass starred for the Pirates in the 1971 World Series against the Baltimore Orioles, hurling two complete one-run victories, one a three-hitter and the other a four-hitter in the decisive seventh game. ...Kison, a 21-year-old rookie that year, also played an important role in the Series triumph, winning the fourth game with 6 1-3 innings of scoreless, one-hit relief. Since then, his major league career has been undistinguished.

Kison got the Padres to hit 10 ground ball outs, and all five hits off him were ground ball singles. All of the fly balls San Diego hit were weak.

Leading the Tiger returners is Jeff Queen, a first team linebacker as a junior last year. The 6-0, 195-pounder led his team in tackles, averaging almost nine a game Queen will also be the Tigers' starting fullback. Kevin Triestram (5-8, 155-pounds) seems to have the starting tailback slot nailed down.

The other returning starters include offensive tackle-defensive lineman senior Keith Mann (5-10, 235) and offensive guard senior Tom Blum (5-8, 150).

Besides Queen and Triestram in the backfield, Coady will have to find a swingback among junior Greg Staffen (5-8, 150pounds) and junior Ron Beam (5-10, 155). Junier Brian Reynolds (5-8, 150) will be the backup tailback Quarterback is one big question mark for Coady this season. Gone is Dave Congdon, the SAC's first team quarterback. Clark Zaleski a 6-0, 175-pound senior and returning letterman looks to be the Tigers' field general.

"Another big question for us is if we can move the ball consistently on the ground," says Coady, who is in his fourth year as head coach.

On the offensive line, Blum will be switched from guard to center but will be pressed by junior Chuck Carpp.

Two senior returning lettermen, 5-10, 185-pound Dan Hill 170-pound Mark Thornhill, will anchor the guard spots. Mann will play one tackle while the other spot will be filled by either senior Carl Zoodsma (5-10, 180) or junior Dave Butler (5-9, 180).

The end spots are wide open, according to Coady. Top people in line for the jobs are junior Paul Makra (5-9, 150), senior Jim Mason (6-1, 170), senior Bunky Kidd (5-6, 150) and senior Dennis Kidd (5-8, 150).

As with most small schools, most of the offensive players will also see double duty. Queen and Zaleski are the linebackers while Mann, Hill and Thornhill play the line. Mason, Staffen, Triemstram and Beam are set to go in the backfield.

"Our biggest strength is our attitude," Coady said. "We're going to need help at quarterback and offensive back and will have to work on consistency.

"If we can get a consistent ground game going, we are going to surprise a few people,'

Sooners Seek Another Title

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

Oklahoma Coach Barry Switzer admits his Sooners have their work cut out for them as they go after an unprecedented third consecutive national college football championship. But he also has a word of warning for those who think they can't do it.

"We'll be hanging around the block somewhere," he says.

However, the defending champions will have plenty of competition around the country, much of it coming right in their own conference - the Big Eight - where Nebraska has been tabbed by many to unseat Oklahoma. Colorado, Kansas, Missouri and Oklahoma State have all received some looksees in Big Eight title talk.

Nationally, the title chase seems unusuallly wide open. Penn State and Pitt in the East, Alabama in the South. Michigan, Ohio State and Notre Dame in the Midwest, Texas in the Southwest, Arizona State in the Rockies and Southern California on the West Coast have been mentioned as possible successors to the Sooners.

the Southeastern Georgia and Conference. Florida are considered the chief threats to Alabama's bid for a consecutive crown. Maryland is again favored in the Atlantic Coast Conference over North Carolina State while East Carolina and Appalachian State seem likely to battle it out in the Southern Conference.

Some position switches and a new 4-3 alignment are expected to bolster the defense, and Iowa will operate more out of the Iformation in hopes of pepping up a weak passing game.

"We feel we have the talent at quarterback to win," says Commings, "and hopefully we can made some little changes that will improve our passing."

Sophomore Tom McLaughlin started the first seven games a year ago until veteran Butch Caldwell took over and led the Hawkeve resurgence.

DALLAS (AP) - The Dallas Cowboys made two position shifts Monday, switching running back Jim Jensen to tight end and cornerback Beasley Reece to wide receiver.

General Partner Al Davis suggested that the team may have plans for Blanda's future "It is a possibility that Blanda could play this year," Davis said. "I'm going to talk to him Friday. We've still got some things to discuss."

"I don't know if this is it," Blanda said. "I just want to get out of here now and go where I know someone cares about me.

Quarterback Ken Stabler, one of Blanda's closest friends said he was surprised that Blanda was shuffled out with no fanfare. "When you've been what George Blanda has been, I thought there would be a big press conference and he would go out with glory. He deserved

"This makes the third time a team has declared me too old to play this game - only this time they may be right," said Blanda, who played with the Chicago Bears and Houston Oilers before coming to the Raiders in 1967.

Dungy Leads Strong Gophers

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) -University of Minnesota will go into the 1976 football season with the best quarterback in the Big Ten, and that's not a bad place

Senior Tony Dungy set a host of school records and equaled the conference mark of 13 TD passes last year while sparking a strong Minnesota finish that resulted in a 6-5 season.

The 6-foot-1, 188-pound Dungy has totaled up 2,286 yards and 21 touchdowns at Minnesota and he has both his favorite receivers

Ron Kullus caught 42 passes for 545 yards and 4 touchdowns and speedster Mike Jones hauled in 29 passes for 473 yards and 2 scores. Jones, however, will miss the first month due to a knee injry.

"We can throw and eatch the ball," says Gopher Coach Cal Stell, "We'll want to develop more of a wide-open attack this year to keep the defenses honest

While the Gophers appear loaded at the skill positions, the most troublesome spot heading into the season is the offensive line where guard Brien Harvey and tackle Jeff Morrow are the only experienced returning players.
"We've got some rebuilding to do here all right," said Stoll. "But our players have set some lofty goals and they worked extremely hard to achieve those

The problems up front could be greatly alleviated if Mark Slater makes the switch from defense and Kevin Naddy recovers from knee surgery. Stater, who has been a defensive tackle, sat out last year because of a back injury. Naddy is an experienced center.

Dungy will have a stable of strong running backs available, led by sophomores Kent Kitzmann and Steve Breault, speedster Bubby Holmes and veterans John Mathews, Sam Brady, Jim Perkins and Greg Barlow. The seven are very comparable although Holmes is the lone breakaway threat.

The defense appears young, but talented, Nose guard George Washington led the Big Ten in tackles last season, and he'll be flanked by tackles Steve Midboe and Jim Ronan and Ron Wrobel and Mark Merrill at the ends. Sophomores Steve Tobin and Steve Cunningham could also erack the starting unit.

Mike Hunt and Steve Stewart are the linebackers, with George Adzick, Brian Snyder, Bobby Weber and Torn Luckemeyer in the secondary. Stoll says Adziek is the best safety in the conference.

There are some uncertain areas, naturally. The Gophers don't love an experienced kicker available or a suitable replacement for Dungy.

Freshman Paul Rogind may have inherited the placekieker duties before he ever steps onto the campus.

"We don't know what to ex-

When the show began in 1955,

Keeshan was 27 years old. Why did he decide to do a grand-father character instead of a younger man?

"Well, I thought it was much easier to relate to young people," he said. "To use a grandparent relationship with a lot of love and warmth, and not a parent with all the responsibility and authority."

Not happy with much of what passes as children's shows, Keeshan feels parents could do more about that.

The only major changes will come when a large number of parents get converned," he says. "Parents are effective at the bottom line, the TV set, and too many are still using it as a babysitter."

Keeshan, a devoted family man and an active member of his Long Island community, manages to keep his private life separate. He's still married to the same woman and they have three children, "who are very nice people.

Mittan Says Firms Flee State Taxes

Lawmaker Defends His Voting Record

High taxes on business imposed by the Democratic majority in the Michigan legislature are forcing businesses who provide jobs to southwestern Michigan residents to move to other states, according to State Representative Ray Mittan (R-Niles). Mittan has been criticized for his so-called "anti-labor " voting record, but explains the labor legislation that he has voted against is the very legislation al makes Michigan jobs disappear Charles Henderson, of Benton Harbor, Mittan's Democratic opponent for 44th District legislator, charged Monday that Mittan didn't represent the orking people of the district.

Mittan replied: "By voting against the so-called labor legislation, I feel I am representing the real working people because this labor legislation is what is causing the working people to lose their jobs working people to lose their jobs because their employers move to other states to escape high Michigan taxes." Mittan said. Many businesses have already moved to other states from southwestern Michigan and others are talking about moving away in the future, Mittan says. He said the closing of the

In Michigan, manufacturing operations pay about $5 per $100 of payroll for worker's compensation compared to about 73 cents per $100 in Indiana. Under the Democratic proposals to reform Michigan worker' compensation system, this rate will increase, according to Mit-

Indiana recently reformed its worker's compensation to provide greater benefits to those who are actually entitled to it and removed those who were milking the system, which resulted in a reduction in the cost to business.

Mittan also defended his voting record on legislation dealing with education pointing out that he opposed the Michigan Education Association (MEA) proposals that would allow teachers to strike with pay.

"No other worker in the state gets full pay while he's on strike and I don't feel teachers should

"The position assumed by the Michigan Education Associa-tion, which pumps bundreds of thousands of dollars into campaigns of persons running against those who do not sup-port the MEA cause, is that teachers should have more money and lesser workloads.

"Right now teacher salaries take up between 60 per cent and 80 per cent of the operating budgets of school districts while colleges and universities are having to add remedial reading programs to teach hundreds of students who did not learn to read in the K-12 school system how to read," Mittan said.

"I'm all for legislation that will improve the schools to the extent that they provide better education for our youngsters, but I will continue to oppose more than improve the quality of life for teachers," he added.

On welfare, Mittan said he has strongly supported a ceiling on ADC, proposals that would force welfare recipients to work if work is available and proposals that would force the Department of Social Services to send checks directly to the provider such as landlords, dectors, dentists and pharmacists to make sure people get their money.

"The reason we have such a great welfare problem in southwestern Michigan is because the Democrat legisla-ture has made Michigan welfare benefits higher than those of other states, so people from other states come to Michigan to get on welfare. In fact, welfare rights organizations in other states encourage their people to come to Michigan to cash its on the benefita here," Mittan anid, hittan added that he has also

'On the other side, the Democrat majority never lets these kinds of bills get any place and as a result, we have criminals committing crimes while out on bond from another charge and criminals who have been paroled after serving only a few years of a several-year sentence committing crimes atmost as soon as they walk out the door of the prison," Mittan

NOW Group Vigil To Spotlight ERA

The Berrien county chapter of the National Organization of Women (NOW) will hold a vigil at the conthouse in St. Joseph tonight to focus attention on the group's push for passage of the equal rights amendment (ERA) to the U.S. Constitution.

Mrs. Cecilia Burke, NOW publicity chairwoman, said members will hold a vigil from 9 p.m. until midnight at the courthouse and will also distribute pamphlets supporting the ERA throughout the day in the State street area in St. Joseph.

Mrs. Burke said the group's activities today are for support of the ERA and the women's movement and also in commemoration of the birthday of Susan B. Anthony, feminist leader instrumental in the passage of the 19th (women suffrage) amendment to the U.S. Constitution, and of the date Alice Paul, another women's movement leader, composed the words for the ERA in 1920.

Mrs. Burke said the Michigan legislature has already passed the ERA but four more states are still required to ratify the amend-ment before it becomes law. She said community participation at the rally tonight is welcome

The county NOW organization won requests from the Benton Harbor city commission and the Benton township board of trustees to fly their flags at half-mast today to draw attention to the group's effort for passage of the ERA. The St. Joseph and Niles city commissions, however, declined to take action on the request.

Lawmaker Defends His Voting Record

High taxes on business imposed by the Democratic majority in the Michigan legislature are forcing businesses who provide jobs to southwestern Michigan residents to move to other states, according to State Representative Ray Mittan (R-Niles). Mittan has been criticized for his so-called "anti-labor" voting record, but explains the labor legislation that he has voted against is the very legislation that makes Michigan jobs disappear.

Charles Henderson, of Benton Harbor, Mittan's Democratic opponent for 44th District legislator, charged Monday that Mittan didn't represent the working people of the district.

Mittan replied: "By voting against the so-called labor legislation, I feel I am representing the real working people because this labor legislation is what is causing the working people to lose their jobs because their employers move to other states to escape high Michigan taxes," Mittan said.

Many businesses have already moved to other states from southwestern Michigan and others are talking about moving away in the future, Mittan says.

He said the closing of the Kawneer Manufacturing Company in Niles was due in part to the high rate the company paid in worker's compensation insurance as compared to other

In Michigan, manufacturing operations pay about $5 per $100 of payroll for worker's compensation compared to about 73 cents per $100 in Indiana. Under the Democratic proposals to reform Michigan worker's compensation system, this rate will increase, according to Mit-

Indiana recently reformed its worker's compensation to provide greater benefits to those who are actually entitled to it and removed those who were milking the system, which resulted in a reduction in the cost to business.

Mittan also defended his voting record on legislation dealing with education pointing out that he opposed the Michigan Education Association (MEA) proposals that would allow teachers to strike with pay.

"No other worker in the state gets full pay while he's on strike and I don't feel teachers should

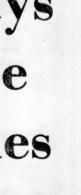

"The position assumed by the Michigan Education Association, which pumps hundreds of thousands of dollars into campaigns of persons running against those who do not support the MEA cause, is that teachers should have more money and lesser workloads.

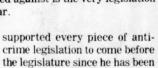

"Right now teacher salaries take up between 60 per cent and 80 per cent of the operating budgets of school districts while colleges and universities are having to add remedial reading programs to teach hundreds of students who did not learn to read in the K-12 school system how to read," Mittan said

"I'm all for legislation that will improve the schools to the extent that they provide better education for our youngsters, but I will continue to oppose legislation that does nothing more than improve the quality of life for teachers," he added.

On welfare, Mittan said he has strongly supported a ceiling on ADC, proposals that would force welfare recipients to work work is available and proposals that would force the Department of Social Services to send checks directly to the provider such as landlords. doctors, dentists and pharmacists to make sure those people get their money

"The reason we have such a great welfare problem in southwestern Michigan because the Democrat legislature has made Michigan welfare benefits higher than those of other states, so people from other states come to Michigan to get on welfare. In fact, welfare rights organizations in other states encourage their people to cone to Michigan to cash in on the benefits here," Mittan said.

"My record will show that I have voted for minimum and mandatory sentences and I support reinstituting capital punishment for certain crimes.

a member of the House.

"On the other side, the Democrat majority never lets these kinds of bills get any place and as a result, we have criminals committing crimes while out on bond from another charge and criminals who have been paroled after serving only a few years of a several-year sentence committing crimes almost as soon as they walk out the door of the prison," Mittan

Summer Session A Record At LMC

Lake Michigan summer session just ended broke all previous summer enrollment records with nearly 1,000 students attending classes, according to LMC officials.

The final summer school headcount shows 934 students attended LMC and enrolled in 4.253 semester hours of college work, an increase of 8.6 per cent over last year's summer enrollment and 20.5 per cent over the number of credit hours taken last summer.

The final tailey exceeds the preliminary summer school enrollment figures issued in June which did not include students enrolled in special courses starting after the regular semmer term began.

Last summer, 860 students enrolled in 3,592 credit hours of classes at LMC. It is on the basis of credit hours taken by students that the college is reimbursed through state aid. Dr. Thomas P. McCourt, LMC registrar, attributed the increase to larger number of four-year university students taking LMC summer classes. and two class periods at night rather than one.

Blaming Dyslexia For Illiteracy A 'Cruel Deception'

By KATHRYN DIEM.

CHAPTER FOUR

Dyslexia, unfortunately, is making a media comeback. In the late 1966s, look-say authorities were dolefully proclaiming that millions of our children, 38 per cent or more of them, suffered from dyslexia and that was why they couldn't read.

Most top reading people dropped the word overnight after a 1969 presidential blue ribbon panel of medical specialists and educators said the word had been turned into a meaningless catch-all term for all poor readers.

But suddenly, in the early months of 1976, there came a new barrage of newspaper, radio, TV, and magazine stories, again drawing attention - to this rare and exotic-sounding . malady.

There is indeed an affliction called "dyslexia" - (the word simply means "trouble with words") - but in its true medical meaning - an inability to read because of a brain tesion it is extremely rare. The Michigan Reading Clinic examined more than 30,000 children who had been labeled "dyslexic" and found only two who could never learn to read. And why couldn't those two ever learn? Undoubtedly they suffered some type of severe brain problem but no scientist to date has been able to say exactly what it is,

Blaming the nation's growing illiteracy on dyslexia is a cruel deception. There have been others, and there will be more. Among today's labels and excuses are "perceptually han-dicapped," "learning disabled," and "minimal brain dysfunction." (They used to say ."minimal brain damage," but you can prove there's no brain damage — how do you disprove something as vague and imdefined as "dysfunction"?)

There really are, of course, some children who are mentally retarded, or perceptually han-dicapped, or learning disabled, or who suffer some sort of brain "dysfunction." But to blame these relatively rare cases fo the nation's reading crisis is to blame yesterday's shower for the size of the Pacific Ocean.

Please, parents: do not accept a school's label for your nonreading child without expert medical proof.

Perhaps the cruelest decep-tion of all, because it is used to block meaningful reading reform is that the look-say retorm, is that the look-say people have adopted "phonics" as their own words. They are deceiving millions of parents and teachers with their claim, "But made heach probable." "But we do teach phonics.

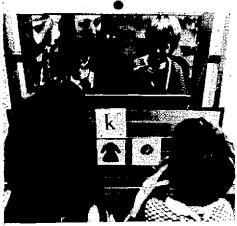

Pressure from the critics has indeed forced look-say publishers to make a slight bow toward phonics. They advertise their "strong phonics" training. Their books "introduce" phonics in the first grade — but, far from being strong, that in-troduction is like a brief hardshake with a stranger who may never be seen again.

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A State Police patrol of Detroit freeways would cost taxpayers $3.5 million a year, according to state Budget Director Gerald Miller. Miller said the proposed pastate Budget Director Gerald Miller. Miller said the proposed partic was under consideration but it posed several problems. "We believe it would cost $3.5 million to patrol the £2.4 miles of freeway (in Detroit)," Miller said. And if state troopers patrolled Detroit's freeways, other Michigan cities might seek similar patrols, Miller said. "There is an additional 151 miles of freeway in outstate areas where similar assistance might be requested." He estimated that state patrols in all those areas would cost taxpayers $12 million a year.

Viking 1 Gives New Life Signal

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — A Viking experiment has again given a signal that could mean Martian life, adding one more piece to a puzzle that seems to bint at a different answer nearly every day.

The outcome of a control experiment disclosed Wednes-day "increases the chance" that day "increases the chance" that sail taken aboard the lander contains life, said Dr. Norman Horowitz, a biologist on the Viking research team.

But the head of that team De-Harold P. Klein, said there are still alternative explanations not nointing to life. He said that If life, then some very unusual chemical process in the sandy red soil is fooling the three biology experiments abourd Viking.

For 3½ weeks these experiments have been yielding results that one day make scientists gloomy and the next day optimistic — which, as Horowitz says, is the way science always works. The difference in Viking is that the public gets word of each step in the investigation Ordinarily scientists work months or years to arrive at a conclusion before it is reported.

Patrol Cost Outlined

LANSING, Mich. (AP) - A State Police patrol of Detroit freeways would cost taxpayers $3.5 million a year, according to state Budget Director Gerald Miller. Miller said the proposed patrol was under consideration but it posed several problems. "We believe it would cost $3.5 million to patrol the 62.4 miles of freeway (in Detroit)," Miller said. And if state troopers patrolled Detroit's freeways, other Michigan cities might seek similar patrols, Miller said. "There is an additional 151 miles of freeway in outstate areas where similar assistance might be requested." He estimated that state patrols in all those areas would cost taxpayers $12 million a year.

lowa State Fair Wednesday that if elected president he would "stop farm embargoes once and for all."

He was referring to government embargoes in the last three years on foreign shipment of U.S. farm products.

But in an interview published today in the Des Moines Register, Carter said his language on embargoes was "too stroug." Instead, he said, he will abide by the Democratic platform, which would allow for an em-bargo in case of a domestic grain shortage. "It would have to be an extreme case," Carter said. "If we don't have adequte grain stocks to meet our basic needs, this (an embargo) would have to be mandatory. But I don't an-ticipate that happening."

Carter, in discussing energy policy in answer to questions from The AP last January. raised the possibility of an embargo on food shipments in a nonfarin context.

"I would make it clear to the Arab countries ... that if they ever again declare an (oil) embargo against this country ... we would respond in kind with a total embargo on shipments of food, military weapons spare parts for weapons, oil drilling rigs, oil pipes or any other commodities...," he said. President Ford said last week in Kansas City, Mo., that "we will never use the bounty of America's farmers as a nawn in international diplomacy. No endurgues."

Before heading for Vail, Dole was scheduled to address the lowa State Fair in Des Moines.

Dole, who addressed the American Legion National Convention in Seattle on Thursday, said it was mere coincidence that he appeared in both Seattle and Iowa o day after Carter.

He received a standing ovation from 4.000 legimmaires by saying there will be no blanket pardon, no blanket annesty, no bianket elemency" from the Ford administration for Viet-nam war deserters and draft evaders.

He said there is no difference between amnesty and pardon and accused Carter of confusing the issue in his speech to the kgionnaires.

Carter told the legionnaires Tuesday that he favored pardon for draft evaders but opposed amnesty. "Amnesty means what you did is right," he said, "A pardon means what you did - right or wrong - is forgiven. - right or wrong - L. .... So pardon - yes, annesty -

He was greeted with boos from the legionnaires. While Carter was in Plains, his running mate, Sen. Walter after beginning a nine-day, 15-city campaign trip Wednesday in Chicago, that also included a stop in Harrisburg, Pa. During the flight from Harrisburg to New York, Mon-

GM did not disclose prices for its 1977 full-size cars, which will be up to a foot shorter and 1,000 pounds lighter than their 1976 counterparts. The firm said those would be announced later.

There has been speculation that GM may not raise prices on its new family cars - or push through only modest boosts — to avoid charges from consumers that they're paying more money

GM Chairman Thomas Murphy said the firm's costs have risen "substantially" in the past year, but car prices changed currentomidels were introduced in August 1975, adding that further cost increases in the 1977-model year are certain.

Resignation Issue On Tap

FARWELL, Mich. (AP) — The resignation of the sevenmember Figwell school board will be discussed Tuesday at a state Board of Education meeting, the state director of School Management said Wednesday. Roger Boline said he did not know whether the state board would appoint replacements for the Farwell former hourd members. The board resigned earlier this week to protest what members called "the overwhelming lack of community support!" for its policies. Voters have repeatedly turned down the board's millage requests. # Ford Cuts Carter Lead, Poll Reveals President Ford, who trailed Jimmy Carter by 33 points in the last Gallup Poll before the Republican National Convention, has cut Carter's early August lead to 10 points, according to a new survey released by the organization today.

The survey, based on interviews with 1,016 registered voters last weekend, concluded that 49 per cent of the electorate now supports Carter, compared with 39 per cent for Ford. Two weeks ago, prior to the GOP convention, Ford trailed Carter

Morton, who said he wanted to be relieved of day-to-day direction of the campaign in order to "travel across the country as an advocate," said the steering committee will promote GOP unity, serve as a forum for strategy talks and take periodic readings on the progress of the campaign.

Carter was expected to stay close to his hometown and prepare for the official Labor Day opening of his campaign.

GM's 1977 Prices Up 6%, An Average $338 Per Car

By OWEN ULLMANN Associated Press Writer

DETROIT (AP) - Consumers shopping for 1977-model General Motors cars this fall will find prices up an average $338 over comparably equipped 1976 autos.

The nation's largest automaker announced Wednesday that it is raising prices an average six per cent - $269 in the manufacturer's suggested base price and $69 for options because of higher costs.

That means the average retail price of a 1977 GM car will be $6,067, including some $1,200 worth of options but not not charges or dealer discounts. The average 1976 GM retailed for $5,720.

GM also predicted record U.S. car and truck sales in 1977, and announced planned capital expenditures next year would near a record $3 billion.

GM, traditionally the first auto company to set new-model prices, said trucks are going up an average $533, including $456 in the base price and $77 for

The other makers are expected to announce similar price hikes within the next few weeks. GM is the industry's ack-avoid charges from consumers that they're paying more money for less car GM Chairman Thomas Murphy said the firm's costs have risen "substantially" in the past year, but car prices have not changed since currentmodels were introduced in August 1975, adding that

> The firm raised car prices last year an average $268, or 5 per cent.

further cost increases in the Last month, GM reported record net profits of $909 million for the second quarter of 1976. But Murphy noted that steel prices have gone up more than 12 per cent since June and labor costs in the past year have gone up 9 per cent.

New labor contracts to replace expiring pacts this fall will mean additional cost pressures, he said

He would not rule out another price hike in 1977, saying that decision "rests upon the attainment of a reasonable labor settlement without a work stoppage and a moderation of future increases in our material

In a separate statement. Murphy predicted U.S. car and truck sales and the firm's capital expenditures would set new records in 1977.

He said industry sales including imports would eclipse the 1973 record of 14.6 million units. GM's capital spending would rise 30 per cent from this year's levels to nearly $3 billion to top the previous high of $2.5 billion spent in 1974, he added.

"The economy's upward direction is well established and the foundations for continued gains seem firmly in place as we enter the 1977 model year," Murphy said in explaining his bullish outlook

GM's price hike, one of the highest percentage inceases in the past 20 years, was higher than the 5 per cent expected by most financial anlysts. It was far short, however, of the record $450 boost set on 1975 models.

The increases range from $22 for the Oldsmobile Starfire to $708 for the plush Cadillac Seville. GM's lowest-priced car for 1977, the two-seater mini Chevette Scooter, will retail for $2,999 - compared with $2899 this year. The Seville will carry the highest price at $13,359. Both prices are exclusive of options, shipping charges and

In Washington, an official of the Council on Wage and Price Stability said the council already was studying information on prices and costs in the auto industry and indicated there would be no new action taken as a result of the General Motors price increase.

GM has added standard equipment on some of its 1977 cars and deleted equipment from others for a net increase of $6 per car, which the firm said is reflected in the base price are justified because of rising costs and will not slow car sales significantly The investment counselors said material costs will rise 7 to 10 per cent this year, and labor costs will go up 10 to 11 per cent, reflecting a new contract settlement with the United Auto Workers.

"The company's price increases are not as large as its cost increases or the rise in personal disposable income, said David Healy, an analyst for Drexel, Burnham & Co. in New York. "So, I don't see any major impact on the market.

Here are some selected GM 1977-model base prices excluding options, taxes and shipping charges — in comparison with current prices. The 1976 prices have been adjusted to reflect the addition or deletion of standard equipment to make the cars comparable with their 1977 counterparts:

COST COMPARISONS: FROZEN VS. HOME-MADE FOODS

If I were to ask you why you use and serve frozen foods, I'd take it for granted that your almost au-tomatic answer would be "convenience." "Frozen foods" and "convenience foods" are virtually synonyms to most of us. If you had said "low cost" in the same breath as "convenience," however, I would have mentally mocked you and promised to produce the facts to prove how wrong you are. But recent studies are disclosing startling computa-tions that indicate the prices of frozen foods are nearly as low as prices of the equivalent amounts of raw materials and vegetables required to produce the same number of servings

the same number of servings from scratch at home. Eliminate the factor of quality, a highly personal reac-tion anyway; climinate too the value placed on the time the cook in your family must spend preparing, mixing, blending, cooking the ingredients - and then cleaning up afterwards. Make no allowance for the fact that it generally takes more gas or electricity to cook raw ingredients than it does to warm pre-cooked frozen foods, a cost factor which matters at today's utility rates. Strike out all can siderations except cost Based on recent retail prices in St. Louis. headquarters for Banquet Foods, No. 1 in dollar sales in the frozen prepared foods field. four Banquet fried chicken dinners cost $2.36. The cost of an equal weight of ingredients mere 29 cents. Here's the breakdown: Start with 15 ounces of chicken. Since the average chicken yields only 8.2 ounces of edible neat per pound, you would have to get nearly two pounds selling at 75 cents a pound at a cost of $1.37. Add 5 ounces of batter that you'd make from half of a 10-ounce how conting $20 cents; your cost is box costing 39 cents; your cost is 20 cents. Next come 13.68 ounces of potatoes. Since a pound of potatoes selling at 20 cents yields only 12.8 edible ounces, you would be using a little more than a pound at a cost of 21 ext come 8.92 ounces of peas and carrols, or 19 cents worth of a 30-cent one-pound can. Last come 8 teaspoons cents with the spread selling at - Or take frazen beef dinners as compared with the homemade. At $1 cents each, the four would cost $2.44 against a cost of $2.41 for the margarine that would cost 10

do-it-yourself versions, with prices calculated on the same basis. A difference of only 3

A factor rarely considered is that you seldom can or do buy the precise amount you use in a specific home-made dinner. The beef dinner, for instance, requires exactly 11 ounces of round tip roast. It is unlikely that your butcher would sell you just 11 ounces of a roast. If you must buy more beef, that saving of 3 cents easily can be wiped out, and if you must buy more than two pounds of chicken, the price of that dish would be increased as well.

Any amount you save by buy ing frozen foods will vanish, however, if you do not buy wisely or if you mishandle the frozen foods so you cannot use them. Thus, heed these buying

(1) Before you start on your shopping trip, check on the space available in your home freezer or the freezer compartment of your refrigerator. Overloading your freezer will reduce its efficiency and prevent it from maintaining the proper low temperature. (2) Check your daily newssubstantial savings can be go havaîr

(3) If you're doing several chores — going to the tailor, the hairdresser, the TV repair shop, etc. - schedule your food shoo ping for the end of the trip, you can bring the food directly home with no other intervening

(4) Buy everything else on your shopping list first, and make the freezer cases your last ston. Avoid the danger that your while you're still pushing your cart down the supermarket

(5) If your market has insulated bass, ask the checker to put your frozen items in them. If insulated bags are not available, have all frozen items bagged together. They'll keep

(6) And when you get home, put the frozen foods away im-mediately — and before you store any other items purchased.

Stocks Move Ahead

NEW YORK (AP) - The stock market moved ahead today, squeezing a little more mileage out of Wednesday's

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks, up 7.90 on Wednesday, rose another .75 to 971.58 in the first half hour

Gainers opened up a 2-1 lead over losers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues. Trading was fairly quiet.

Brokers noted that the upswing, which followed the market's sharpest sustained decline of the year, was set in motion by General Motors' forceast of record car and truck sales for the industry in calendar 1977.

GM shares rose 1/8 to 661/8 in early activity today. Among other auth stocks, Ford Motor posted a % gain to 54% and Chrysler was up 1/8 to 201/2.

Another plus mentioned by analysis was speculation that New York's Citibank might lower its prime lending rate when it makes it weekly review of the key rate on blue chip loans Friday morning. Standard Oil of Indiana was the most active NYSE issue, up

Statistics Should Be Read Carefully

By JOHN CUNNIFF AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — As we in America become more dependept on computer-produced numbers to tell us the state of the economy, it behooves us from time to time to ask questions about those numbers.

If the numbers aren't correct. don't we risk making incalula-bly bad decisions? In investments, in tax policy, in politics?

As with any numerical products, the economic statis-ties that guide such decisions are only as good as the validity of the concepts involved, the correctness of techniques, and the quality of the raw data to be

With this in mind, a person scanning the jobless figures for 1976 might have reason to pause and ponder. These figures, as popularly and officially used are seasonally adjusted to offset temporary factors.

If we look at the raw data that is, unadjusted — we find that there were 8,174,000 people without jobs in January 1976, but only 7,577,000 without jobs in June.

If we now look at the seasonally adjusted data we see a different story. In this column we find that there were only 7.290.600 without jobs in January, but there were 7,426,000 unemployed in July.

Which way did unemployment go? Down, as in the raw count, or up, as in the seasonally odjusted figures? Do we accept the raw count, or instead, the for-mulation of the statisticians?

The official jobless rate is based on the adjusted ligares. It is on this rate that govern tal decisions are based, and the millions of voter and investor decisions.
It is also a rate that, based as it is on a somewhat arbitrary formula, at best is a good estimate. At the end of the year these adjusted figures are often revised, which is to say corrected.

A simple set of numbers in the June 1976 issue of the Federal Reserve Bulletin also offers reason to reflect on statistical procedures. It refers to expansion in industrial production as an annual percentage.
From 1946 to 1963, the Fed reports, industrial production rose at an annual percentage of 4.2 per cent. And from 1963 to 1974, it states, the annual increase was 4.6 per cent.

But, combining the two periods the Fed reports that from 1946 to 1974 the annual percentage increase in industrial production was 4.7, a conclusion, you may note, that is greater than the components.

Moving on to the Index of Leading Indicators, we find here one of the most closely watched barometers of the economy — a barometer, not a thermometer — it is supposed to foretell, rather than measure past or present.

Beginning in late 1970, the index continued rising into the third quarter of 1974. Relying upon it, one economist after another forecast a continuacio of expansion, even as the economy was falling apart. Even the president of the United States was fooled or, to put it more accurately, his economic advisers were fooled. embarassed These economists were just too trust-ing. Pierre Reinfret, the consulting economist, was too perpiexed to let the matter rest and he thereby avoided some of the pits into which his colleagues fell.

Examining the figures, Rinfret concluded that the problem had to be with the con-cept. Most of the numbers in the index, he observed, were in value terms, such as the value of new construction. This being so, obviously the index was inflated as badly as the dollar which was used to measure its components. The index was rising, and pointing to further expansion, because prices for everything were ris-

Deflated, the index clearly and accurately showed that trouble was brewing for the economy, trouble that came in the shape of the worst recession since the Great Depression of Moral: When we get so used to the numbers that we don't check them out we can get into an awful lot of trouble.

PALISADES TESTED Delay At Midland Will Be Appealed

JACKSON, Mich. (AP) — Consumers Power Co. will appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court a lower court decision ordering new hearings on the construction license the utility is seeking for its hearings on the construction license the utility is seeking for its Midland Nuclear plant. A company spokesman said Wednesday Consumers also will seek a delay of the new hearing order until the federal forms of the new license of the new lic Supreme Court can make a decision on the appeal. The federal Nuclear Regulatory Commission will join the utility in seeking the delay, the spokesman said. A federal appeals court ruled last month that new hearings must be held to reconsider several items before further construction at the plant can continue. Those items include disposal of nuclear wastes, energy conservation, and the need for steam from the plant at nearby Dow Chemical Co. The court also wants clarification of a statement made by the advisory committee on reactor safeguards. Consumers Midland District Manager Wayne McDouald said the utility will ask the high court to rule whether the appellate panel acted within its jurisdiction in ordering new hearings. On Wednesday, Consumers took its Palisades Nucléar Plant at South Haven out of operation for 24

Put Funds To Work For Higher Wages

By SAM SHULSKY
Q. We are in our late 60s, liv-ling on Social Security and in-come from $45,000 Treasury bills, $65,000 in savings, a mortgage, and dividends from a few thousand dollars worth of steel and pipeline stocks. We use every cent of income and use every cent of income and even have to dip into capital for a $1,000 every so often. Are we doing right?

A. I figure, roughly, that you have about $140,000 to work with. At your age, and with no dependents, I see no reason why you can't dip into principal every so often." As a matter of fact, with no beirs, you might well consider putting the bulk of your money into a joint lifetime annuity... when you get to the age which will permit a generous income from such an annuity. Shop around and get somes ideas, although you may have to wait about five years to get a deal which will make it worthwhile.

In the meantime, it seems to me you can lift your income far more than that $1,000 a year by shifting 90 per cent of that savings account into time cer-

U.P. Firm Looks For Merger

WHITE PINE, Mich. (AP) — Copper Range Co. has contacted several firms, including AMOCO Minerals Co., about possible acquisition of all or part of the company's opera-tions, Copper Range officials said Wednesday. "An evaluation of the proposal is underway, but no decision has been made," said Peter N. Pitcher, president of AMOCO Minerals. AMOCO Minerals is a wholly-owned subsidiary of Standard Oil Co. of "No agreements or understanding of any kind as to sale acquisition, or merger have been reached with AMOCO Minerals or any of the firms contacted," Chester Ensign Jr., president of Copper Range, A spokesman for the Upper

If dipping into capital makes you uneasy (and I can understand that) why not put your funds to work at higher wages?

COST COMPARISONS: FROZEN VS. HOME-MADE FOODS

If I were to ask you why you use and serve frozen foods, I'd take it for granted that your almost automatic answer would be "convenience." "Frozen foods" and "convenience foods" are virtually synonyms to most of us.

the same breath as "convenience," however, would have mentally mocked you and promised to produce the facts to prove how wrong vou are. But recent studies are disclosing startling computations that indicate the prices of frozen foods are nearly as low as prices of the equivalent amounts of raw materials and vegetables required to produce the same number of servings from scratch at home. Eliminate the factor of quality, a highly personal reaction anyway; eliminate too the value placed on the time the cook in your family must spend preparing, mixing, blending, cooking the ingredients - and then cleaning up afterwards. Make no allowance for the fact that it generally takes more gas or electricity to cook raw ingredients than it does to warm pre-cooked frozen foods, a cost factor which matters at today's utility rates. Strike out all considerations except cost. - Based on recent retail in Louis. headquarters for Banquet Foods, No. 1 in dollar sales in the frozen prepared foods field, four Banquet fried chicken dinners cost $2.36. The cost of an equal weight of ingredients came to $2.07, a difference of a mere 29 cents. Here's the breakdown: Start with 15 ounces of chicken. Since the average chicken yields only 8.2 ounces of edible meat per pound, you would have to get nearly two pounds selling at 75 cents a pound at a cost of $1.37. Add 5 ounces of batter that you'd make from half of a 10-ounce box costing 39 cents; your cost is 20 cents. Next come 13.68 ounces of potatoes. Since a pound of potatoes selling at 20 cents yields only 12.8 edible ounces, you would be using a little more than a pound at a cost of 21 cents. Next come 8.92 ounces of peas and carrots, or 19 cents worth of a 30-cent one-pound can. Last come 8 teaspoons of margarine that would cost 10 cents with the spread selling at $1.20 a pound. Or take frozen beef dinners compared with the homemade. At 61 cents each, the four would cost $2.44. against a cost of $2.41 for the

If you had said "low cost" in do-it-yourself versions, with prices calculated on the same basis. A difference of only 3 cents

A factor rarely considered is that you seldom can or do buy the precise amount you use in a specific home-made dinner. The beef dinner, for instance, requires exactly 11 ounces of round tip roast. It is unlikely that your butcher would sell you just 11 ounces of a roast. If you must buy more beef, that saving of 3 cents easily can be wiped out, and if you must buy more than two pounds of chicken, the price of that dish would be increased as well.

Any amount you save by buying frozen foods will vanish, however, if you do not buy wisely or if you mishandle the frozen foods so you cannot use them. Thus, heed these buying

(1) Before you start on your shopping trip, check on the space available in your home freezer or the freezer compartment of your refrigerator. Overloading your freezer will reduce its efficiency and prevent it from maintaining the proper low temperature.

(2) Check your daily newspaper for frozen food specials; substantial savings can be achieved on advertised sale

(3) If you're doing several chores - going to the tailor, the hairdresser, the TV repair shop, etc. - schedule your food shopping for the end of the trip, so you can bring the food directly home with no other intervening

(4) Buy everything else on your shopping list first, and make the freezer cases your last stop. Avoid the danger that your packages will start thawing while you're still pushing your cart down the supermarket

(5) If your market has insulated bags, ask the checker to put your frozen items in them. If insulated bags are not available, have all frozen items bagged together. They'll keep each other cold.

(6) And when you get home, put the frozen foods away immediately - and before you store any other items purchased.

Statistics Should Be Read Carefully

By JOHN CUNNIFF AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) - As we in America become more dependent on computer-produced numbers to tell us the state of the economy, it behooves us from time to time to ask questions about those numbers.

If the numbers aren't correct, don't we risk making incalulably bad decisions? In investments, in tax policy, in politics? As with any numerical products, the economic statistics that guide such decisions are only as good as the validity of the concepts involved, the correctness of techniques, and the quality of the raw data to be processed. With this in mind, a person scanning the jobless figures for 1976 might have reason to pause and ponder. These figures, as popularly and officially used, are seasonally adjusted to offset temporary factors. If we look at the raw data - that is, unadjusted - we find that there were 8,174,000 people without jobs in January 1976, but only 7,577,000 without jobs in June.

If we now look at the seasonally adjusted data we see a different story. In this column we find that there were only 7,290,000 without jobs in January, but there were 7,426,000 unemployed in July.

Which way did unemployment go? Down, as in the raw count, or up, as in the seasonally adjusted figures? Do we accept the raw count, or instead, the formulation of the statisticians?

The official jobless rate is based on the adjusted figures. It is on this rate that governmental decisions are based, and the millions of voter and investor decisions. It is also a rate that, based as it is on a somewhat arbitrary formula, at best is a good estimate. At the end of the year these adjusted figures are often revised, which is to say, corrected. A simple set of numbers in the June 1976 issue of the Federal Reserve Bulletin also offers reason to reflect on statistical procedures. It refers to expansion in industrial production as an annual percentage. From 1946 to 1963, the Fed reports, industrial production rose at an annual percentage of 4.2 per cent. And from 1963 to 1974, it states, the annual increase was 4.6 per cent. combining the periods the Fed reports that from 1946 to 1974 the annual percentage increase in industrial production was 4.7. a conclusion, you may note, that is greater than the components.

Moving on to the Index of Leading Indicators, we find here one of the most closely watched barometers of the economy - a barometer, not a thermometer — it is supposed to foretell, rather than measure past or present.

Beginning in late 1970, the index continued rising into the third quarter of 1974. Relying upon it, one economist after another forecast a continuation of expansion, even as the economy was falling apart.

Even the president of the United States was fooled or, to put it more accurately, his economic advisers were fooled. embarassed These economists were just too trusting. Pierre Reinfret, the consulting economist, was too perplexed to let the matter rest and he thereby avoided some of the pits into which his colleagues fell. the Examining figures. Rinfret concluded that the problem had to be with the concept. Most of the numbers in the index, he observed, were in value terms, such as the value of new construction.

This being so, obviously the index was inflated as badly as the dollar which was used to measure its components. The index was rising, and pointing to further expansion, because prices for everything were ris-

Deflated, the index clearly and accurately showed that trouble was brewing for the economy, trouble that came in the shape of the worst recession since the Great Depression of the 1930s Moral: When we get so used to

PALISADES TESTED Delay At Midland Will Be Appealed

JACKSON, Mich. (AP) - Consumers Power Co. will appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court a lower court decision ordering new hearings on the construction license the utility is seeking for its Midland Nuclear plant. A company spokesman said Wednesday Consumers also will seek a delay of the new hearing order until the Supreme Court can make a decision on the appeal. The federal Nuclear Regulatory Commission will join the utility in seeking the delay, the spokesman said. A federal appeals court ruled last month that new hearings must be held to reconsider several items before further construction at the plant can continue. Those items include disposal of nuclear wastes, energy conservation, and the need for steam from the plant at nearby Dow Chemical Co. The court also wants clarification of a statement made by the advisory committee on reactor safeguards. Consumers Midland District Manager Wayne McDonald said the utility will ask the high court to rule whether the appellate panel acted within its jurisdiction in ordering new hearings. On Wednesday, Consumers took its Palisades Nuclear Plant at South Haven out of operation for 24 hours, officials said, to conduct tests on the unit's condenser.

Put Funds To Work For Higher Wages

Q. We are in our late 60s, living on Social Security and income from $45,000 Treasury bills, $65,000 in savings, a mortgage, and dividends from a few thousand dollars worth of steel and pipeline stocks. We use every cent of income and even have to dip into capital for a $1,000 every so often. Are we doing right?

A. I figure, roughly, that you have about $140,000 to work with. At your age, and with no dependents, I see no reason why you can't dip into principal 'every so often." As a matter of fact, with no heirs, you might well consider putting the bulk of your money into a joint lifetime annuity. . . when you get to the age which will permit a generous income from such an annuity. Shop around and get somes ideas, although you may have to wait about five years to get a deal which will make it worthwhile. In the meantime, it seems to me you can lift your income far more than that $1,000 a year by shifting 90 per cent of that savings account into time cer-

Medic Tells Of Own Heart Surgery

"Sometimes 1 have the feeling that people who know me now hok at me and think 'There's Bill Nolen. He's had his heart operated on. He's not quite normal any more.

The soap operas have taught us about heart surgery. The chord organ crescendos, The victim says something like: "Life is like cotton candy — you take a bite and it's gone." Then, alleluia, he rises from the ashes to live and love again. Right? Well, not exactly,

In the real world, the process is a little slower and a lot more painful. This week, Dr. William A.

tells about a heart surgery survivor he knows from bead to toe, Himself.

It's about how you pick up the pieces and put them back together again. It's a story about coming face-to-face with the fact that your life will never be the same again. And then getting on with it.

Read it Saturday in Family Weekly, a regular feature of The Herald-Palladium.

Ask Your Dentist

By ALFRED E. SEYLER, D.D.S.

Q. Some time age you wrote about sugariess gum and mints. Who makes them, what de they taste like and where can I buy them? I would like to give something like that to my grandchildren lastead of the grandchildren instead of the stuff they eat and chew all day long, because I know sugar makes tooth decay.

A. It is nice to find grand-parents interested in children's teeth, as you seem to be. Most of the time, the parents of my child patients blame the grandparents for the candies and gum the children get! Although I cannot give you the names of the squarless gums and candies. I believe ou can buy them at most drug or department stores. If you want trade names, ask your own dentist. He receives literature and even samples quite regularly from the manufacturers of such items. Your comment about chew ing such things all day long is mite understandable. Chewing gum is extremely popular in the United States and Canada. especially among the men in the Armed Ferces, because smuking is often prohibited or dangerous. The National As-sociation of Chewing Gum Manufacturers tells us that they produce 184 sticks of gum per person every year.

In every stick of sugar-sweettened gum there is a half-teas-poon of pure sugar, plus the gum base, flavor and other ingredients. There are 7-12 calories in every full stick of sugar gum. In addition to the calories, sugar gum provides the decay producing bacteria which are almost always present in the mouth, with the food which enables the bacteria to attack the enamel of the teeth and produce cavities. When sugarless gum was in-troduced 12 or 15 years ago, it wasn't very popular. It wasn't really chewy - it didn't stick ingether and the sweetness and flavor lasted only a short while. Nowadays, sugarless gum "chews better", tastes sweet and its flavor and sweetness last as long as the well known gums. It is sweetened by the ame sweeteners that are used in diabetic and low calorie foods and soft drinks. These sweeteners are called "hexi-tols". They occur naturally in berries and fruits but for commercial use they are manufac-tured. Some research workers maintain they have food value but that they enter the blood stream more slowly than sugars. Perhaps this is why some soft drink manufacturers tell you for a quick lift you should drink their sugar sweetened product, but if you don't want to put on weight or make your teeth more likely to decay. you should use the artificially cetened product.

Perhaps parents, teachers and orthodontists will hate me for this last statement, but it is true that you can even get bubble gum that is not swee tened with sugar!
